COURT IS TOLD HOW QUISLING HALTED TROOPS

Officers Say Order Brought Chaos

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 23—Norway's efforts to repel the German invasion on April 9, 1940, were thrown into chaos by Vidkun Quisling's broadcast that night ordering the people not to mobilize, two Norwegian army officers testified today in the former puppet premier's trial for treason.

Col. Rasmus Hatledal, army chief of staff in 1940, said that he had asked Col. Birger Ljungberg, the defense minister, to order full mobilization as early as April 5, but that Ljungberg told him to wait until April 9—the day the Nazis invaded.

"I learned later," Hatledal said, "that Ljungberg planned to issue an order of 'silent' mobilization, and I protested the order was impossible and useless." A "silent" mobilization, Hatledal explained, was simply a distribution of notices to all who were to participate, without a radio broadcast.

Told Troops to Go Home

Lt. Col. Harold Wrede-Holm, then commander of the Oslo garrison, said that after Quisling's broadcast his men already were confused and discouraged, but "to make things worse Quisling officers went among my troops trying to tell them to go home and approached me with orders to halt the mobilization. This I refused."

Col. Hans Hiorth, also of the Norwegian army, testified that on the day of the invasion Quisling phoned him and ordered the arrest of the government. Quisling, asked by the judge, "How about it?" said that he merely wanted to stop the flight of ministers from Norway.

Egil Sundt, director of a radio station here, told of Quisling's invasion night broadcast, ordering the cancellation of mobilization and demanding that resistance cease.

A telephone switchboard girl from the Hotel Continental described how a Mr. Hagelin, Quisling's agent in Germany, often deposited large sums ranging from 7,000 to 10,000 kroner [$1,400 to $2,000] in the hotel whenever he arrived from Germany. On the morning of the invasion, she said, German officers appeared at the hotel and asked for Hagelin or Quisling.

Will Hear Own Voice

Workmen began installing sound equipment in the court at the end of today's session so that Quisling's voice may be heard in court to refute some of the statements he already has made in his defense. Records of extracts from speeches by the former puppet premier will be played.

Quisling's easy transition from a communist to a nazi was traced by a parade of German witnesses and their Norwegian friends and enemies earlier in the day. Quisling, whose name has become an English synonym for traitor, did not object to being called a Marxist, but did protest that his administration of Norway under German occupation was less extravagant than under the king who collects from a population of less than 3,000,000 approximately twice the salary of the President of the United States.

[The President's salary is $75,000 a year.]

The court of seven members and two alternates, outspoken in reflecting the popular attitude that Norway suffered as much or even more than America from the war, did not

Firemen Halt Call to 1,800 for Walkout

TRIBUNE'S JOB SURVEY
The third section of The Tribune's survey to ascertain the effect of reconversion on Chicago area plants appears today on page 6.

The office of defense transportation last night on order of President Truman assumed control of the Illinois Central railroad, thereby averting a strike of firemen and enginemen scheduled for 12:01 a. m. today.

The Presidential order came after an all day conference, called in Washington, D. C., by Reconversion Director Snyder, failed to reach a settlement of the dispute which involves a jurisdictional conflict between the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen.

Scott E. Clark, Chicago, chairman of the firemen's lodge 47, said the strike was called off for an indefinite period immediately after word that the government had taken control.

1,800 Employes Involved

The strike was to have affected 1,800 of the Illinois Central's firemen, hostlers, and hostlers' helpers. Operation of the road's suburban electric lines was not involved because no firemen are employed.

The White House reported that President Truman, when he signed the seizure order, said a stoppage in the railroad industry at this time is unthinkable.

The order did not define the legal authority for the seizure. A spokesman for the office of war mobilization and reconversion said the action was taken because the dispute threatened to interfere with [1] essential war purposes—troop movements and the shipment of goods to troops, and [2] the orderly transition to a peace time economy.

W. F. Kirk, ODT's western railroad director, was named as federal manager by ODT Director Col. J. Monroe Johnson. Kirk and Johnson immediately called upon all employes of the railroad to continue in their jobs and report for work at the usual time.

Johnson Issues Statement

Wayne A. Johnson, I. C. president, in Washington, D. C., last night in a statement said it was "Embarrassing that such a thing should happen to the Illinois Central" and regrettable that "some might think there was a conflict separating management and employes." The statement said that the management was "caught in the middle" in the dispute and would coöperate fully with the government manager, meanwhile seeking to effect an agreement between the brotherhoods.

The dispute between the brotherhoods developed over which union's laws should govern seniority of firemen advanced to locomotive engineers. A Presidential emergency panel held a three week hearing here and ruled July 25 against the firemen. Last week a 28 man grievance committee of the firemen's union rejected the findings of the emergency panel and set the strike date.

Mr. Truman, it was revealed is preparing an order by which the government would step out of the Toledo, Peoria, and Western railroad, Montgomery Ward & Co., the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, and a score of other enterprises where managements or unions defied war labor board orders.

ANOTHER ATOMIC BOMB?

GI Underwear Too 'Drab' for Needy Europe

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23—Offers to provide thousands of suits of unused surplus GI underwear to help clothe war ravaged Europeans have been rejected by the united nations relief and rehabilitation commission on the ground the olive drab color is unsuitable for relief recipients, it was disclosed today.

Roy A. Cheney, president of the underwear institute, told a news conference that GI type underwear suits were offered for sale to UNRRA, which was seeking clothing supplies for relief distribution abroad.

The institute, Cheney explained, told UNRRA representatives it could arrange for the sale at reasonable prices of several thousand suits of GI underclothing turned back by the army as "seconds" because of minor defects.

Returned to Army

"UNRRA rejected our offer," Cheney said. "They told us the people abroad wouldn't wear GI underwear because they don't like the olive drab color."

Cheney said the offers have been made "several times" to UNRRA since it started functioning late in 1944, but have been rejected each time.

Asked what became of the garments, Cheney said that eventually the army took most of them back for GI issue, to meet its own shortage. Some GI's thus presumably wore the second grade garments that were unacceptable to the color conscious civilians whom our soldiers helped to liberate.

Meanwhile, Rep. Rogers [R., Mass.] declared UNRRA is a "direct failure and should be liquidated."

Start Hearings Soon

Mrs. Rogers, a ranking member of the house foreign affairs committee, urged in an interview that the International Red Cross replace UNRRA in taking over foreign relief work after relief from the military has ended.

The foreign affairs group is scheduled to start hearings next month on a proposal that the United States contribute another billion dollars to UNRRA, in addition to 1 billion, 350 million already authorized. The latter figure is already 72 per cent of the total capital contributed by 43 member nations to the relief agency.

JAMES BELCASTRO DIES; LONG KNOWN AS BOMBERS' KING

James Belcastro, 49, known for years as "king of the bombers," died last night. He died at home of a heart attack, altho police had predicted that gangster guns some day would get him.

James Belcastro

The hoodlum, once No. 4 on the crime commission's list of public enemies, died in the home of his father-in-law, Daniel Fanelli, with whom he lived at 1011 Polk st. Firemen vainly tried to revive him.

Belcastro often was suspected in labor and liquor bombings in the 1920s and 1930s, haled into court several times, but always freed. He had been arrested more than 150 times. In 1917 he was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell for assault. In 1933 a jury convicted him of vagrancy, but records do not show whether he served a term. In 1931 he was shot five times by hoodlums.

At various times he engaged in food and tailoring businesses. Recently he was said to have engaged in handbook operations with a brother-in-law, Rocco Fanelli, another ex-public enemy. Belcastro leaves his widow, Rose, a son, and a daughter.

Snubbed Hero, Coatless Dad Dine in Style

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23—One of the capital's oldest and most austere hotels, the Willard, apologized profusely today for having denied food two nights ago in the main dining room to a congressional medal of honor winner and his family because one member of the party, the soldier's father, was without a coat.

The hotel management, whose frosty glance has been known to make wealthy business men and dignitaries tremble at the thought of losing shelter in these overcrowded times, indicated a shattering of the traditional innkeeper's demeanor toward war time guests.

Coatless Father Served

It announced it had attempted to make amends last night by serving a complete dinner in the same dining room to the hero, Sgt. James Hendrix Jr., 20, of Lepanto, Ark., and his guests, including his coatless father.

"It was terrible," said Marshall Jones, the Willard manager. "It should never have happened.

"A lieutenant brought the party to the hotel and told the front desk their identities, and then left. They were not known in the dining room. They were told they could not be served because Mr. Hendrix was coatless. The staff was following a long standing rule."

Still Without His Coat

On the second occasion when the party was served, the elder Hendrix, a farmer, was still without a coat, the hotel said. The rule was ignored in his case.

When young Hendrix received from President Truman the nation's highest military decoration at the White House today, the elder Hendrix had his sleeves rolled up and collar opened as he viewed the scene.

By White House order an army car took the Hendrixes sightseeing this afternoon.

"It's all right, I reckon, but we'll be glad to get home," Farmer Hendrix said at the end of the busy day.

A and B Gas Card Holders to Lose Insurance Cuts

The 20 per cent reduction in collision insurance rates given A card holders during gasoline rationing and the 10 per cent reduction for B card holders will be eliminated when new policies are written, automobile insurance executives said yesterday. Holders of C cards paid the full manual rate during the gasoline rationing period.

TRUMAN READY TO ASK ACTION FROM CONGRESS

Awaits Advice on Pearl Harbor

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—Return of the nation to standard time in place of the hour later war time will be recommended to congress Sept. 5 by President Truman, he told his news conference today.

The President added that he thinks the matter should go back to the states to regulate.

There were other signs on Capitol hill that congress may be asked to act promptly to repeal "war time."

Needs Congress Action

Under present statute, written early in the nation's defense effort, war time would run for six months after termination of the war.

Rep. Howell [R., Ill.], member of the house interstate commerce committee, announced he would call for immediate committee action on one of several pending repealer bills as soon as congress reconvenes.

President Truman cannot turn the clocks back by proclamation. An act of congress is necessary.

KIMMEL ACTION DUE

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23—President Truman today said he expects to receive soon recommendations on determining responsibility for Pearl Harbor from the war and navy secretaries.

When these recommendations are in hand, the chief executive said, he will announce whether immediate and public trials are to be held to fix the blame for the treacherous Jap attack which brought the United States into the war. He said he will make the recommendations public.

Mr. Truman contributed his mite on the great naval disaster as the capital continued to expect that congress will demand a complete airing of Pearl Harbor when the senate and house reconvene Sept. 5.

Roberts Offered Job

The name of Supreme Court Justice Roberts, who presided over the commission which placed the blame for the disaster on the shoulders of Adm. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Short, navy and army commanders, respectively, at Hawaii on Dec. 7, 1941, came into a press conference, but not in connection with his investigatory assignment.

Mr. Truman said he hoped to give an international assignment to the retired justice, but the justice has tentatively declined it. The President said he and State Secretary Byrnes hope to induce the jurist to change his mind. Roberts has been mentioned as a candidate for the post of presiding judge of an international court.

The press conference at which the

U. S. BATTLESHIP PENNSYLVANIA HIT BY TORPEDO

GUAM, Aug. 24 [Friday] (AP)—The battleship Pennsylvania was struck by a Japanese aerial torpedo the night of Aug. 12, when surrender negotiations were in progress, and heavily damaged, with 20 men killed or missing, the navy disclosed today.

A Japanese plane swept in low in a sneak run, catching the 33,100 ton ship, once called the "luckiest battle wagon in the fleet," unawares. The missile opened a gaping hole in the side of the warship.

The torpedo struck the starboard side. The magazines were damaged but did not explode. The Japanese plane escaped. Most of the casualties occured below in the navigation compartment.

The Pennsylvania was blacked out at the time of the attack and there was no time to sound an alarm.

Within 30 minutes, workships had pulled alongside and began the job of keeping the Pennsylvania afloat. The work was so successful that the battlewagon will sail again.

Vice Adm. Jesse B. Oldendorf, commander of battleships of the Pacific fleet, was visiting the Pennsylvania at the time of the attack. The impact jarred the "Pennsy" skipper, Capt. William Moses, from his chair.

Bares Stilwell Removal Over Arms Protest

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 23 (AP)—Rep. Patterson [D., Cal.], declared today Gen. Stilwell had advised him he was asked to leave his China command "because he told Chiang Kai-shek he wanted the ammunition we were furnishing him to be used against the Japs and not against Chinese."

Patterson, addressing a local Democratic luncheon club, said Stilwell who, after leaving China was assigned to the Pacific combat area, made the remarks to him and other members of a congressional delegation which recently visited him at Okinawa.

General Proves Frank

"The general made no bones about telling us this," Patterson declared. "He had been military advisor to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and was reported to have left China at the generalissimo's request."

Later, newsmen asked Patterson for an amplification of his remarks.

Complained to Roosevelt

"Stilwell told us," said the congressman, "that Chiang had complained to Roosevelt and the then President did not want any trouble with Chiang and so Stilwell was transferred. He said the trouble was that he had complained to Chiang because American guns and ammunition were being used to kill Chinese instead of Japs."

Asked if there was any reference to Chinese Communists in the congressmen's conversation with Stilwell, Patterson replied in the negative.

JAPS HAMPERED BY A TYPHOON, M'ARTHUR TOLD

350 Planes to Land 7,500 Troops

MANILA, Aug. 24 [Friday]—(AP)—The Japanese officially informed Gen. MacArthur today that an intense typhoon in the Tokyo district had hampered their preparations for arrival of American advance occupation parties.

The radiogram failed to clarify whether the reported typhoon would interfere with the timetable of MacArthur's arrival, which is scheduled for Tuesday with 7,500 heavily armed American air borne troops.

"We feel it necessary to inform you that in spite of our best efforts, the preparations required by you for the entry of the advanced party are meeting some difficulties due to the heavy 740 millimeter typhoon which lasted from the evening of the 22d until the morning of the 23d," said the Japanese radio message, "and brought about considerable damage to the communications and transportation in the Kanto district."

Reference to Sunday Entry

The "advance party" mentioned by Tokyo apparently was a reference to Tokyo's announcement that an American entry was scheduled for Sunday, a report not confirmed by MacArthur.

The 740 millimeter reference apparently was to the barometric reading, which would be approximately 29.13 inches of mercury, indicative of a moderate storm.

The Tokyo radio said that the typhoon destroyed 291 houses, partly wrecked 780 others, and flooded 3,336. It said service on several railway and street car lines in the Tokyo area was interrupted.

Ask Arms for Defense

The note was the third radioed in swift succession today and was followed quickly by a fourth reiterating a Japanese contention that on the Asiatic mainland "disarmed Japanese forces and civilians are being made victims of illegal firing, looting, acts of violence, rape and other outrages," and asserting the situation "is certain to get out of control."

The message asked that Japanese forces in Manchuria, north Korea and Inner Mongolia be allowed to retain their arms for defense until Japanese residence had been removed to safety.

The first note radioed by the Japs inquired if MacArthur's directives brought back by Japanese emissaries who met his aides in Manila Aug. 20, carried the hours specified in Japanese time.

With 350 Transports

The second expressed a desire to provide "as much facilities as circumstances permit" to the allied press and asked information as to the number of correspondents expected to land in Japan by Aug. 31—the date the surrender is to be signed aboard the battleship Missouri in Tokyo bay.

Announcement that the air borne spearhead of occupation forces would total at least 7,500 air borne soldiers was made at Okinawa.

In the first aerial wave will be 150 four-engined army transports and 150 Liberators from Okinawa air bases and about 50 other transports from Iwo. Around the sky train will hover swarms of fighters, ready to open fire at the first sign of treachery, and the 20 to 30 fighting men in each plane will be armed and alerted for combat.

Japs Disarming Ships

From then on Japan will take its orders from MacArthur, who will preside when the final articles of surrender are signed in Tokyo bay Aug. 31.

Under his orders already issued the Japanese were disarming all ships at sea today, and the air force was grounded save for liaison planes, unarmed and carrying surrender instructions to remote commands.

Submarines were ordered to surface and fly the black flag of surrender. Ships in home waters rode

Michigan Mike Beats Shell Game

BY THOMAS MORROW

Michigan Mike, a turgid tortoise with a repulsive personality, tottered to a languorous victory in the 6th annual turtle derby last night in front of Vernon Bartels' hardware store in Chesterton, Ind. The time was 57 seconds.

The uncouth reptile, which apparently had no previous aim in life, was trained by his owner, Miss Judy Thurston, 10, Chesterton. It is a common or Chelydridae turtle, with no teeth.

"I didn't train him," confided the owner. "I let him go to bed when he wanted to."

He's a Hard Shelled Guy

There was some discontent in Chesterton over the fact that Mike was imported from Doster, Mich., five days ago. The winning turtle, apparently unshamed by the charge that he was a ringer, watched his owner collect $5 in war stamps.

Old turtle families in Chesterton took comfort from the fact that a home product, named Thurman, broke the world's record for a 40 foot circle with a 33 second victory in the consolation race. Unfortunately, in his semi-final, Thurman became confused and sat down to achieve some pretty gruesome sound effects.

Second prize went to Butch, a filly, owned by Jack Ruhe, Chesterton, and third money was won by Lester, a turtle entered by Rose Marie Waugh, 14, Chesterton. Biggest disappointment of the evening was a turtle named Wiegman, property of Madeline McKenzie, which developed a bad drift and failed to finish after leading most of the way.

Chet Dishes Out the Facts

After the race Chet Stemp, grand scribe, in a short, educational talk on turtles, explained that the only noise a female turtle makes is a slight hiss. On the other hand, he said, male turtles in mating season achieve some pretty gruesome sound effects.

The smaller tortoises emit a feeble piping, according to Stemp, who is regarded pretty highly in Chesterton. He warned that this same noise in the giant tortoise attains a hoarse bellow.

Leo Putchaven of Chesterton attended the race as usual. Neither he nor the turtles seemed to be disappointed.

at anchor. Ships at sea were ordered to dump explosives overboard and set sail for designated ports.

In the second step toward the surrender, allied naval fleets will move in and occupy enemy coastal waters tomorrow, while the Japanese will immobilize all vessels in Tokyo bay and disarm the surrounding shores, bristling with coastal guns and anti-aircraft batteries.

Planes are Gathering

Allied planes will drone overhead, mounting aerial guard to see that Japan is keeping these commitments.

MacArthur announced yesterday that the battleship Missouri had been chosen as the site for signing the articles of surrender in the bay Aug. 31.

Hundreds of transport planes were gathering on Okinawa for Tuesday's great aerial migration which will carry MacArthur to Japan at the head of occupation forces which Tokyo said would be 50,000 to 60,000 strong in the initial waves.

The Japanese were told to have members of the imperial general staff ready to meet him at 6 a. m. [4 p. m. Monday, Chicago time] at Atsugi airdrome, 20 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Enter Bay Sunday

Simultaneously, marines and sailors fully armed will swarm ashore at Yokasuka, Japan's second greatest naval base 20 miles south of Tokyo.

Japanese militarists at Atsugi will get their orders from MacArthur. Under his detailed time table, allied fleets will enter the bays of Tokyo and Sagami Sunday [Saturday Chicago time] guided by Japanese pilots.

The following day the Japanese must begin the evacuation of all combat units from the occupation zone, leaving only the local police to maintain order.

While the conquering forces will arrive prepared to meet any emergency, the Japanese were reported taking steps to prevent outbreaks of violence. Home broadcasts told the people to remain calm, keep out of the road of the evacuating Nipponese troops, "refrain from individually approaching occupation troops," and to be courteous if approached by allied forces.

This broadcast said Japanese police would enforce order and once more asked the people to avoid acts of violence.

Ignore Commanders

Surrenders in the field were ahead of schedule. First of an estimated 120,000 Japanese troops in the by-passed islands of the Marshalls and Carolines of the central Pacific already have capitulated. Representatives of probably 3,500 troops and naval personnel on the eastern Marshall atoll of Mill signed surrender papers on the destroyer escort Levy Wednesday.

Several thousand troops in northern Luzon arranged to surrender yesterday over the protest of their commanders, and negotiations were in progress with trapped enemy forces on the other Philippine islands of Mindanao and Cebu. The commander of enemy forces on Bougainville, in the Solomons, arranged to surrender his armies the day the allies land in Japan.

The Japanese sought to forestall the use of invasion currency. The government messaged MacArthur that "we hope that the allies will use bank of Japan notes." It said it was "ready to deliver currency at Atsugi, Yokohama, and Yokosuka."

[NBC Correspondent Merrill Mueller reported from Manila that Gen. MacArthur granted several Japanese requests but probably will reject the enemy's suggestion that Bank of Japan money be used.]

Adm. Spruance, commander of the U. S. 5th fleet, and his amphibious force commander, Rear Adm. Theodore F. Wilbinson, conferred here with MacArthur prior to combining their forces with Adm. Halsey's 3d fleet for the triumphal entry into Tokyo bay.

Halsey's fleet conducted a big air show within a few hours steaming time of Japan yesterday. More than 1,000 carrier planes from the United States and British fleets participated.

Ask to Send Food

Japan appealed for permission to send ships to ill and starving garrisons on Marcus Island and "various isolated islands in the south," adding that food on Marcus, 1,200 miles southeast of Tokyo, would be exhausted in two more days.

MacArthur granted the request for clearance of a transport ship to Marcus but demanded further details before making any decision on "various isolated islands in the south."

The allied command acceded to a Japanese request for permission to operate railway ferries unarmed and bearing white identifying crosses and permitted possible minor changes in the travel schedule of an imperial prince who flew to southern Asia to deliver surrender orders to field commanders.

Japan today asked MacArthur to permit limited ship movements "after the prescribed hour" because "there may be found within Japanese waters some motor sailing vessels of more than 100 tons not provided with radio equipment," which would not have received the allied instructions via Tokyo.

Some other vessels may not have equipment to transmit on the radio frequencies that MacArthur specified, the message added.

WIN MANCHURIA; REDS ALSO TAKE SAKHALIN ISLE

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Premier Stalin tonight triumphantly proclaimed complete victory over Japan, with his Red army occupying all of Manchuria, the Japanese naval base of Paramushiro in the Kuriles, and the remainder of southern Sakhalin Island.

Snapped up as the last foundations of Japan's stolen empire in Manchuria crumbled into dust was the puppet emperor, Henry Pu Yi. The former "boy king" of China was captured as he and his entourage huddled on the airstrip of Mukden airdrome, the soviet bulletin said.

Stalin, in his first order of the day since the start of his 15 day lightning war with Japan on Aug. 9, announced that his armies had seized all of the rich industrial province of Manchuria, which the Japanese called Manchukuo after they wrested it from China in 1931.

Japs Lay Down Arms

Proudly Stalin, in the order addressed to his commander in chief, Marshal Alexander M. Vasilevsky, and his generals, asserted that the Japanese Kwantung army had laid down its arms and surrendered.

The order, announced from Moscow with a salute of 24 salvoes from 324 guns that shook the soviet capital, disclosed that Red army forces had captured Shumushu and Paramushiro, the northernmost of the Kurile Islands.

Yesterday Moscow disclosed that air borne units had landed on Shumushu, at the extreme north of the island chain. Paramushiro and other objectives in the Kuriles were targets for many United States air attacks.

[Bases in the Kurile Islands were among those named by the house naval committee in a report last Saturday as needed for use as land and sea plane bases for the future defense of the United States.]

Port Arthur Entered

On the heels of the victorious order, which recounted the devastating rush of the Red armies in the last 15 days, came a bulletin that said Russian land forces had entered Port Arthur, joining air borne units who seized the post yesterday.

Occupation of both Port Arthur and Dairen by Red army air units was announced yesterday, a feat that wiped out the Japanese accomplishments of 40 years ago when both were wrested from Russia.

Stalin's order said the victorious soviet units would be given the names of Port Arthur, Khingan, Sakhalin, Mukden, Harbin, and Amur, commemorating the major achievements of the campaign.

35,000 Japs Surrender

The bulletin reported that 35,000 Japanese, including 15 generals, surrendered yesterday, for a five day total of more than 281,000. War material seized included 483 planes, 171 tanks and selfpropelled guns, 642 field guns, 298 mortars, 2,764 machine guns, and 481 stores with ammunition equipment and foodstuffs.

Two additional towns in southern Manchuria were reported captured —Lingyuan, 170 miles northwest of Peiping, and Liaoyang, 40 miles south-southwest of Mukden.

On Sakhalin Island the Russians occupied the towns of Motodomari, important port on the east coast line, and Shimonotoro, on the west coast.

JEWELRY AND $25 STOLEN

Jewelry valued at $175 and $25 were stolen in a burglary of his home, R. A. Fischel, 5114 Greenwood av., reported yesterday to the police.

BOMBS KILL OR INJURE 680,000 IN 81 JAP CITIES

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Air blows on the Japanese home islands killed 260,000 persons and injured 420,000—including 100,000 killed and 180,000 wounded by two atomic bombs—and almost completely wiped out the people of 44 cities, a Tokyo broadcast said yesterday.

The broadcast, possibly intended to incite sympathy, said 9,200,000 persons were left homeless, bringing the total affected by strikes by allied aircraft to nearly 10,000,000, or about one-sixth of Japan's home population.

"Out of 206 cities in Japan, the people of 44 have been almost completely wiped out, while 37 others including Tokyo lost over 30 per cent of their built-up areas," said the broadcast.

The Tokyo broadcast said 2,210,000 homes in Japan were demolished or burned and 90,000 others were damaged.

Those killed in Japan exceeded the total 1940 population of eight downstate Illinois counties. These counties—Christian, 38,564; Shelby, 26,290; Montgomery, 34,490; Macoupin, 46,304; Fayette, 29,159; Effingham, 22,304; Bond, 14,540, and Marion, 47,989—have a total population of 259,379 and cover 5,218 of the state's 56,400 square miles.

To equal the 10 million Jap casualties, the entire population of 11 middle west and western states would have been killed, injured, or made homeless. These states—Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada, Idaho, South Dakota, North Dakota, and Montana—have a combined population of 10,058,950. They cover a total of 991,817 square miles against a Japanese area of 148,756.

SO SORRY, NO CAN DIE FOR NIPPON; SUICIDERS QUIT

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OKINAWA, Aug. 23—The Jap suicide boys on Aka Island will not have to die for their emperor. Very unfortunate, their colonel says.

All 240 of them, who were supposed to crash small dynamite laden boats into any American invasion fleet entering the Ryukyus Islands, surrendered to the Negro 24th regiment. While some 500 Ryukyus Japs have given themselves up this week, including the senior surviving officer, Col. Yasuji Tsukamoto, the Aka suicide boys are the first to quit in a group.

Six months ago the Aka garrison numbered 273 and they had 150 motor and row boats. A week before the Easter morning landing on Okinawa some Yanks from the 77th division raided Aka and overnight destroyed almost all the boats. As a result the 32 Aka men and one lieutenant charged with defending the boats against such a raid killed themselves.

Have Note from Colonel

Yesterday another party went to Aka—a truce party. An aide to the Aka commander, Maj. Yoshika Noda, appeared and later went back into the hills for the major. The truce party handed him a note from Col. Tsukamoto, the Nip officer who surrendered on Okinawa last week.

"Unfortunately it is the duty of the Japanese forces to comply with the imperial order and surrender," the note said. "I am praying that your young men will throw away any thoughts of embarrassment and work for the reconstruction of Japan."

Good Enough for Him

The major said that was good enough for him, so he ordered his men out of their elaborate dugouts, lined them up on the beach, and handed his sword to the 24th's commander, Col. Julian Herne of Wheeling, W. Va. The 24th raised the American flag and everybody saluted—especially the Japs.

Then the Japs walked aboard boats for transfer to the Okinawa prison camp. From the spring in their step you couldn't quite believe they considered themselves as did the colonel—very unfortunate.

CANADA HOLDS UP ORGANIZING PACIFIC FORCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 23—Organization of Canadian military units for the Pacific is being held up pending information as to whether there is any desire on the part of the Pacific high command for Canadians as members of the occupation force.

A division of 30,000 Canadians was to train in Kentucky, and to foperate under the United States army in the Pacific, but only the vanguard had left for Kentucky when Japan capitulated. The whole situation is now before the Canadian cabinet. The understanding is that Canada would be quite prepared to send either army, air force or naval personnel as part of the force of occupation.

If Canadians do not participate, it is probable Canadian forces which were being prepared for the Pacific, will be demobilized.

JAP PARLIAMENT TO MEET SEPT. 2 AND MAP PEACE

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 23 (AP)—An extraordinary session of the Japanese diet will be convened Sept. 2 and 3 to drive home to the nation the stark reality of Japan's defeat and to clarify the circumstances leading to the end of the war, the Japanese Domei agency said today.

The Japanese government also has formed a conference on termination of the war, replacing the supreme council for direction of the war, Domei announced.

Tokyo radio said Gen. Sadamu Shimomura, commander of Japanese forces in north China, was appointed minister of war today, taking over the portfolio Prince Higashi-Kuni had held along with the premiership. Mamoru Shigemitsu, minister of foreign affairs and minister of greater east Asia, resigned from the house of peers today, "due to circumstances."

Jose P. Laurel, who served as president of the so-called "republic of the Philippines" under Japanese sponsorship, has declared his government "dissolved," Domei said.

NAZIS BARRED FROM BUSINESS BY ARMY HDQ.

FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 23 (AP)—United States army headquarters tonight ordered active Nazis and militarists who had gained positions of prominence and influence in their communities removed from private businesses, professions, or occupations.

Heretofore, military government authorities have directed their main attention to ousting Nazis from governmental and quasi-public positions. In contrast, the new order is designed to denazify every phase of German life.

The directive permits the issuance of temporary revocable licenses to physicians and others engaged in such activities "as are necessary for the health, safety, or well being of their community."

A HERO PARADE! 28 PRESENTED TOP U. S. MEDAL

Two Receive Award from Wheel Chairs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23—Unforgettable stories of human courage and American heroism were retold quietly today in the east room of the White House as President Truman bestowed the nation's highest award, the congressional medal of honor, upon 28 American fighting men for supreme valor on battlefields in the far corners of the world.

There were many tear brimmed eyes in the crowded chamber as Maj. Gen. Edward F. Witsell, acting adjutant general of the army, read the citation for each telling simply of the matchless deeds for which they were receiving the treasured decoration.

300 at Ceremony

The assemblage included more than 300 relatives and friends of the men who were being welcomed by the President into the nation's hall of heroes. Their great moment came when they were asked to rise at their seats and remain standing as Mr. Truman, smiling warmly, placed the beribboned medal around the neck of their particular soldier.

Fresh in the minds of every one there was the President's statement that he would rather hold the congressional medal than be President.

Two of the heroes could not stand when they were decorated — they were in wheel chairs. Another with an empty right sleeve saluted with his left hand. For many of the others, the impressive ceremony had been postponed until today to enable them to recover from their wounds.

Two from Illinois

Top ranking officials of the army and navy also witnessed the ceremony, including Navy Secretary Forrestal, Acting War Secretary Patterson, General of the Army Marshall, and Admiral of the Fleet King.

Two of the winners were Illinoisans. Tech. Sgt. Robert E. Gerstung, 30, of 5447 Northwest hwy., Chicago, received the award for fighting off a strong enemy force single handed with a machine gun near Berg, Germany, last Dec. 16 to permit the safe withdrawal of his company. He was a member of the 313th infantry of the 79th division.

Staff Sgt. Claude L. Choate, Anna, Ill., was honored for challenging a German tank alone and knocking it out with his bazooka after it had threatened to overrun the shallow fox holes of his comrades near Bruyores, France, last Oct. 25.

Kills Fleeing Nazis

After immobilizing the German tank with his first bazooka shot, Choate's citation said, he "approached under its cannon and machine gun fire to fire a second time." He killed members of the enemy crew who attempted to flee and finally closed in on the giant vehicle armed only with his pistol until close enough to drop a hand grenade in the turret.

These were typical of the tales read off one by one in measured tones during the 60 minute ceremonies—tales which carried the listeners back to Luzon, to Germany, Holland, France and Belgium. Under the magic of the crisp army language in which the citations were written the guns seemed to boom again there under the giant chandeliers and the air seemed filled with the cries of men and the harsh whine of bullets.

Others who received the awards were:

Pvt. S. S. Herrera, Phoenix, Ariz.
Tech. Sgt. Bernard P. Bell, New York.
Paul L. Bolden, Madison, Ala.
1st Lt. Cecil H. Bolton, Huntsville, Ala.

HONOR U.S. GROUP FOR CAPTURE OF HITLER U-BOAT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—Award of the Presidential unit citation to the anti-submarine task group which captured intact an enemy German submarine off the French West African coast in June, 1944, was announced today. [The task group was under the command of Capt. Daniel V. Gallery, Chicago.]

The navy reported the group consisted of the carrier Guadalcanal, and escorting ships Pillsbury, Pope, Flaherty, Chatelain and Jenes, and composite air squadron 8.

After forcing the U-boat to the surface, a boarding party brought the vessel under control for the first successful capture of an enemy combatant vessel on the high seas by the United States navy since 1815.

ATTLEE INSISTS HONG KONG WILL FALL TO BRITAIN

Tells Commons About Plan to Run It

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee told a cheering house of commons today that arrangements were being made for "the Japanese surrender in Hong Kong to be accepted by a British force commander."

The house cheered when Attlee assured Winston Churchill, opposition leader, that the government was taking action to restore British administration in the crown colony as soon as it receives the Japanese surrender there.

Attlee to Keep It in Mind

When Churchill raised the question, he reminded the prime minister that the British government repeatedly had made it plain that it did not contemplate "any modification in sovereignty of his majesty's territories in the Far East."

"Yes, sir," Attlee replied. "I have very full recollections of those statements, and, I will bear them in mind."

In Chungking, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, American commander in China, said the Chinese and British governments were negotiating over whose forces should occupy Hong Kong.

"Temporary Arrangement"

The anxiety of European nations to recover their territories probably was one of the reasons why a foreign office spokesman said today that the decision to use British and Chinese troops for the occupation of French Indo-China was "an extremely transitory and temporary arrangement."

CHINESE REDS ACCEPT CHIANG PARLEY OFFER

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 24 [Friday]—(AP)—Official communist sources here said today that Communist Leader Mao Tse-tung had accepted Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's invitation to send a representative to Chungking to discuss peaceful settlement of China's internal political problems.

These sources said Mao had named Gen. Chou En-lai as his representative.

"For the sake of unity," Mao was quoted as saying, "I appoint Gen. Chou En-lai to go to Chungking. Please accept him as my delegate and discuss matters with him."

Invitation Previously Rejected

The communists had rejected a previous invitation from Chiang to send representatives from Yenan to Chungking to discuss their differences with the national government.

The Yenan leaders have been demanding, among other things, a full share in surrender negotiations with the Japanese and reportedly have disregarded Chiang's instructions to refrain from taking any independent action.

Chiang dispatched his second invitation to Mao last Monday as observers openly expressed fears that civil war was imminent. He told Mao that efforts to "achieve national reconstruction and reap the fruits of the war of resistance" against Japan "depended to a great extent" upon his sending representatives to Chungking for peaceful discussions.

The generalissimo emphasized that "no recrudescence of civil war can be tolerated."

Troop Movements Reported

Chiang's action followed reports from North China that communist troops were moving to seize key Chinese cities upon the surrender of the Japanese garrisons.

More than 1,000,000 Japanese troops will be surrendered to the forces of Chiang, it was disclosed yesterday.

The 1,000,000 figure was disclosed in a battle order delivered by Nipponese envoys at Chihkiang to Gen. Ho Ying-chin, commander of the Chinese forces. It was estimated that they represented half of the total Japanese military strength on the Asiatic mainland.

Confirm Burma "Cease Fire"

RANGOON, Burma, Aug. 23 [Reuters]—The Japanese command in this area sent the allies its first direct communication today when Lt. Gen. Kimura, commander of the Japanese in Burma, confirmed an order to cease firing, in a message to the allied commanders.

[An Exchange Telegraph agency dispatch from Rangoon not confirmed elsewhere, said Japanese surrender envoys would arrive in Rangoon next Sunday.]

Shift Burma Rule

LONDON, Aug. 23—Consultations are taking place in Burma between civil and military authorities to arrange for the transfer from military to civil government in the shortest possible time, Arthur Henderson, under secretary to Burma, told the house of commons today.

Planes to Aid Prisoners

PRISONERS HELD BY JAPS TO GET HELP TOMORROW

Planes Will Shower Supplies on Them

MANILA, Aug. 24 [Friday]—(AP)—The Japanese government has located for American occupation forces the sites of prison camps where an estimated 32,000 prisoners of war, 7,000 of them American, are held.

Some of the camps are believed to be located in the area where the allied forces of occupation will land. One camp at Yamakita, for instance, is 16 miles southwest of Atsugi, where MacArthur will land. Atsugi is 20 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Another camp is at Urawa, five miles north of Tokyo, and another was reported inside Tokyo itself.

Some Near Targets

Despite allied protests, the Japanese located many of the camps near prime military targets, and enemy broadcasts have reported that some internees were killed in bombing raids. Some prisoners were put in stockades near the big industrial cities of Osaka and Kobe.

Another camp was located at Niigata, embarkation port 160 miles northwest of Tokyo which allied planes also bombed. Camps also were located at the inland sea cities of Moji and Ube, two bomb targets on Kyushu and Honshu respectively.

Most remote of the camps are near Murorran and Hakodate on the southern end of Hokkaido. Another group is located in south central Shikoku.

Red Cross to Help

Tokyo messaged Gen. MacArthur that Japanese Red Cross workers and aides from the Swiss and Swedish legations would leave today for seven major camps to help move internees to designated embarkation ports.

BERWYN NAVY PILOT SNATCHED FROM RAFT OFF COAST OF JAPAN

ABOARD ADM. McCAIN'S FLAGSHIP, off Japan, Aug. 22 [Delayed]—(AP)—Lt. [jg] Maynard J. Mitchell, 2437 Highland av., Berwyn, Ill., who flew off this carrier July 28 in the Kure raid, has returned after a harrowing detour. Mitchell was shot down on his way back from the strike and spent an hour and a half 200 yards off Japan with his wounded gunner in a life raft.

"My engine was hit when we were about 20 miles from the coast," Mitchell related today. "My gunner was wounded in the arms and legs. It was close, trying to make a water landing before the engine quit, but I made it. I had to help the gunner into the raft, for he was badly wounded.

"As we pushed off in the raft, a Japanese machine gun post on shore started firing at us. About an hour and a half later a rescue plane picked us up and flew us to Okinawa, where the injured gunner was treated. He now is recovering."

DEATH OF BOSE, INDIAN PUPPET, EASES DILEMMA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NEW DELHI, India, Aug. 23—The death of Subhas Chandra Bose, India's quisling and president of the Japanese sponsored "Free India" government, has removed one problem for the British, but there still is the question of what to do with his following.

Subhas Chandra Bose

[Bose died in Japan Sunday after a plane crash at Taohoku, Formosa, as he was flying from Singapore to Tokyo, the Japanese news agency reported yesterday.]

Demands for leniency for Bose by many responsible Indians prior to the report of his death stirred widespread indignation among British and Americans whose troops had suffered at the hands of Bose's puppet army in Burma.

Bose also operated a spy ring right in the heart of India's training and supply area. He personally operated an extortion racket against Indians and Chinese in Burma, Malaya, and Thailand.

Wainwright Is 62 Today; Still No Word from Him

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 23 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright tomorrow will celebrate his 62nd birthday anniversary. There was no further news about the general who was found at a prisoner of war camp near Mukden. A plane was sent two days ago to bring Wainwright out.

FRENCH PRESS UNFAIR TO U. S., SAYS TRUMAN

Tells Visiting Writers of Need for Square Deal

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—President Truman today told a group of French newsmen that this country has not been getting a square deal in the French press. The Frenchmen, here to cover the visit of Gen. De Gaulle, president of the French provisional government, were introduced to Mr. Truman after his regular weekly news conference.

He told them he had only one thing to say—that he hoped they would begin to give this country a square deal in the French press, which he said it has not had so far.

The Frenchmen were obviously taken aback. None of them had any questions to ask. Diplomatic scurces said later they professed puzzlement over what the President had in mind.

Tells of Pleasant Visit

Mr. Truman himself did not specify whether he referred to some specific action by the French press, or was speaking more generally.

Most of the Frenchmen said they believed Mr. Truman based his remarks on recent articles asserting the United States army was burning food and other supplies instead of making them available to the people in France.

Just before the French newsmen were introduced to him, Mr. Truman had told American reporters of his very pleasant visit with De Gaulle last night. Mr. Truman said the two discussed all questions of interest between the two countries.

Indicating that there will be further meetings, the President said all French-American questions had been turned over to State Secretary Byrnes and French Foreign Minister Bidault.

Confers With Aids

Today the President and De Gaulle worked separately while their top aids conferred at length on the matters referred to them.

Bidault spent most of the day with Byrnes at the state department.

De Gaulle held a long conference with Jean Monnet, head of the French economic mission to Washington. This coupled with a report that the foreign economic administration has approved a 250 million export-import bank loan for France, made it clear that economic matters are getting high priority.

Secretary Byrnes declared tonight he was "satisfied" the visit of Gen. De Gaulle would result in greater cooperation between this country and France in a statement in closing a formal dinner he gave to the French leader. Numerous toasts were made at the dinner.

24 HOUR VISIT BY DE GAULLE BEGINS MONDAY

Mayor Kelly yesterday received a telegram from Gen. Charles De Gaulle, chief of the French provisional government, formally accepting the city's invitation to visit Chicago. "Altho I did not need any reassurance of your faithful affection," the telegram said in part, "your invitation nevertheless will be one of the highlights of my visit to your country."

Gen. DeGaulle will arrive at Chicago airport at 6 p. m. Monday. He will be met by the mayor, who will escort him to the Blackstone hotel for an official dinner at 7:30 p. m. in his honor.

Tuesday Gen. DeGaulle will witness a parade of mounted and motorcycle police, military units, and military bands, from a reviewing stand in Victory plaza on the La Salle st. side of city hall. This will be followed by an Association of Commerce luncheon in the Palmer House. Tuesday afternoon the French leader will be taken on a tour of the city's points of interest. He will leave at 6 p. m. for Canada.

FORTUNE FOUND IN EFFECTS OF EVICTED WOMAN

Police from Marquette station, who were called to 3022 Roosevelt rd. yesterday to investigate the eviction of Mrs. Becky Kushner, 65, found thousands of dollars in currency and coins hidden in almost every article of furniture and piece of clothing the woman owned.

Mrs. Becky Kushner

Mrs. Kushner told police she had been evicted from her two room, $15 a month flat, because she failed to pay last month's rent. She said she declined because the water was shut off.

Capt. Andrew Aiken of the Marquette station said more than $4,000 was found in a pillow slip. Bags, buckets, pails, and other possessions, which had been piled in the alley, also yielded large sums. The goods were loaded in a patrol wagon and taken to the police station, where the money will be counted today.

Mrs. Kushner, who also was taken to the station, said she earned the money scrubbing floors and taking care of children.

BRITAIN VOTES RATIFICATION OF WORLD CHARTER

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP) — Great Britain ratified the United Nations charter tonight despite blunt statements in parliament that it was not strong enough to maintain peace while the atom bomb remained an Anglo-American secret.

Some speakers urged that the secret be shared immediately with Russia.

With even its critics saying it must be adopted, the house of lords first approved the 50 nation pact, followed by commons. Despite the criticism, in neither house was it necessary to take a vote.

Britain thus became the fifth major power to give formal approval. The United States, Russia, France and China, as well as several nations previously, had completed ratification.

Tehran Invokes Curfew After 7 Die in Mutiny

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 23 (AP)—A military curfew closing all public meeting places from 10 p. m. to 5 a. m. was imposed in this capital today as an aftermath of a mutiny of about 2,000 officers and men of the Iranian army last week. The mutiny was halted after seven men were killed.

BRITAIN SEEKS TO RETAIN JOB, PRICE CONTROLS

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 23—Britain's transition from war to peace is going to be slow, it was revealed today when the Labor government disclosed its intentions to continue certain war time controls over labor, supplies, services, and prices for at least five years, despite the expected expiration of the war time emergency powers act early next year.

The government submitted a bill in the house of commons calling for the retention of about 150 war time defense regulations on the ground that they are just as necessary in peace as they are in war.

The bill removes the last vestige of the notorious regulation, 18-B, however, by wiping out a clause in the emergency powers act which made possible the "detention of persons in the public safety" without charge or trial. The act was revoked by parliament earlier this year. When the new bill is passed the government will not be able to re-introduce it without special legislation requiring the consent of parliament.

Price Controls Included

Defense regulations involved in the new measure include control of prices for goods and services of all descriptions; regulation of ships and aircraft; powers to take possession of land, mines, and minerals; control of coal mining, railways, building operations, and the reconditioning of houses.

The three reasons given by the government for extending these regulations were:

1—To secure at fair prices a sufficiency of those supplies and services essential to the well being of the community, and their equitable distribution.

2—To facilitate the readjustment of industry and commerce to the requirements of the community in time of peace.

3—To assist in the relief of suffering and in the restoration and distribution of essential supplies and services in any part of his majesty's dominions or in foreign countries that are in grave distress as a result of the war.

Not Necessarily Maximum

The five years duration proposed by the bill is not necessarily the maximum since it can be prolonged for another year by an order in council if necessary. The bill does not create the power to make new defense regulations but permits the existing ones to be changed to meet the new conditions.

It specifies that any order in council made under the bill must be submitted to parliament, either of which may annul it in 40 days.

BARE COLLISION OF BATTLESHIPS OFF KWAJALEIN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—The navy disclosed today that two of its modern 35,000 ton battleships, the Washington and the Indiana, collided Feb. 1, 1944, as they were withdrawing after a bombardment of Kwajalein, in the Marshalls.

Military secrecy had cloaked the accident until today.

The Indiana suffered three dead and one injured. Casualties on the Washington were three dead and three missing.

Neither ship was damaged sufficiently to force its retirement from the task group. Both steamed into Majuro under their own power for temporary repairs, and shortly thereafter returned to Pearl Harbor for permanent repairs.

222 Spanish Republicans Held as War Prisoners

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 23—The house of commons today was told by a government spokesman that 222 Spanish Republicans were being held as prisoners of war in camps in this country. They had taken refuge in France from the Franco regime. They were conscripted into German construction battalions later seized by the British.

COURT IS TOLD HOW QUISLING HALTED TROOPS

Order Foiled Defense, Officers Testify

go into the question of differences between absolutism under Hitler and that under Stalin. The court did, however, resent the reflection against the monarchy.

Insists He Was Efficient

Quisling skipped over testimony regarding his ideology but insisted he had an efficient public administration.

"How much salary did you draw as minister president?" asked the presiding judge, Erik Solem.

"Only half as much as the king," replied the big, yellow haired Nordic. "Twenty-five thousand kroner [$5,000] a month."

"This does not include 300,000 kroners from your finance minister, Frederick Prytz, or 400,000 from your counsel general, Hildisch, does it?" the judge asked.

"Those were gifts," Quisling replied.

"Gift" from Public Treasury

"Yes," retorted the judge. "Prytz' gift came directly from the public treasury and Hildisch's gift from arranging a tax evasion. Right?"

"No," Quisling insisted. "The records will show that the state treasury had more money when I left office than when the king fled the country."

"Bah," interposed the judge, silencing the defendant with a wave of the hand. "The records will also show that the state treasury still owes the state bank between 11 and 12 billion kroner—and you speak of saving money for Norway," Solem continued, turning his head away in a gesture of disgust.

Jakob Friis, former left wing editor and now a state librarian, and Martin Tranmael, a labor leader, told of Quisling's 1925 devotion to the Communists.

Friis, about, 60, bald and with a grin of embarrassment, testified that he had introduced Quisling to Tranmael, then an editor of a Red newspaper in Oslo. Tranmael, also slight and old, testified that Quisling, then an officer of the army general staff, wanted to lead the "Red guards," a revolutionary communist movement.

"No Speeches," Judge warns

Quisling, under court procedure which permits the defendant to be questioned or to question witnesses almost any time, rose to his feet with a denial, his big eyes shining from his square, pallid face.

"I was merely offering my services in forming a parade," said Quisling, waving one of his white hands too small for his bulky body.

"No speeches," Judge Solem remonstrated. "Just answer yes or no whether you were trying to organize the Red guards."

"No," Quisling said, "and I should like to add that I was not introduced to Tranmael on this occasion but had known him in Moscow."

Former Ministry Conncil Bergholt, haughty and military of bearing, testified in German thru an interpreter that Reich Commissioner Josef Terboven, the German occupation boss, told him that Quisling, thru his unusual influence with Hitler, was responsible for nazi terrorism in Norway.

Tells of Murder of Jews

Dr. Leo Eitenger, a mild mannered, blond Norwegian Jew, told in a matter of fact voice that he was deported with 168 others to a German concentration camp and only 12 survived the maltreatment. He said all but 40 of the party were killed in a gas chamber immediately upon arrival in the camp.

Hearing of witnesses started this morning in the fourth day of the trial. Thirty-five witnesses, who are not suspected of complicity, filed into the court and received their instructions. They were followed by 18 civilians, Germans, and Norwegian collaborators, including one woman, and by two German officers in uniform, a major and a captain, under guard of four United States soldiers. This second batch were prisoners.

Russian Wife Guarded

One woman who may figure in the case is Quisling's Russian wife, Maria, who is under guarded seclusion here. The court record includes a letter from her to the defense counsel saying that her husband is a hard working abstemious, humanitarian, Norwegian patriot.

She said his relief work in Russia in the 1920s, where she met and wed him, saved many lives, including the lives of Jews, and that for his work Quisling was awarded a citation saying he would always be welcome as a guest of the soviet union. It was for other work in Russia, representing British military interests thru the Norwegian counsel, that he became a commander of the British empire [an honorary title].

Canadian Attache Named to Witness Jap Surrender

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 23 — Col. Moore Cosgrave, Canadian military attache to Australia, will go to Tokyo to witness the Japanese surrender, it was stated here by the department of external affairs. Because redeployment of Canadian forces from Europe to the far east had not proceeded sufficiently when Japan capitulated, there is no high ranking Canadian officer in the far east.

British Deny They Kept Aussies Out of Surrender

LONDON, Aug. 23 [Reuters]—The British dominions office said tonight that Britain had taken the initiative in pressing for Australia's representation at Japanese surrender and armistice negotiations. UNRRA REPORTS POLAND SUFFERS HUNGER, DISEASE

Conditions Found Worst in All Europe

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—A first-hand report on conditions inside Poland reached united nations relief and rehabilitation headquarters today, showing food shortages, disease, and economic breakdown. Officials said the conditions there may be the worst in all of war wrecked Europe.

The report was cabled to Roy F. Hendrickson, acting director of UNRRA, by Clifford H. Willson of Denver, Colo., acting chief of an UNRRA delegation investigating Poland's needs and making arrangements for aid.

On investigation of the Polish government the delegation visited eight centers scattered over the country.

Little Milk Available

With respect to agriculture Willson cabled Hendrickson:

"Live stock is desperately short everywhere. At Lodz, milk available only for children under two years and their ration is only one-quarter litre daily. [About half a pint.] This was the highest ration of milk reported.

"Only three hogs have been seen by the delegation on the entire trip. More than 98 per cent of the field work is being done by hand and with one-horse equipment. In Breslau area only 20 per cent of the land was planted for 1945 and of this approximately only 60 per cent being harvested due to mines and lack of equipment."

Poorly prepared seedbeds and poor cultivation were attributed to lack of horses and tractor power. Yields were called "light, due to lack of manure and fertilizer."

Industry Lagging

In his report on industries, Willson said tannery production is about 25 per cent of capacity due to lack of chemicals and hides.

"Coal mines at 50 per cent production with extremely worn equipment," he continued. "Steel mills, 30 per cent production with much equipment removed. Textile mills, 40 per cent production with much equipment damaged."

On the score of health, Willson said the chief disease problems are tuberculosis, typhoid, and dysentery.

Infant mortality is "extremely high" due to dysentery and lack of baby foods.

Up to the end of July, UNRRA reported, relief shipments to Poland totalled 147,176 long tons having a value of $96,782,000. The rate of shipments is now rising.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

Aug. 23, 1945

A CITY bred reporter sat down to eat with the threshing crew at the farm today. It is an ordeal not recommended for those reared on luncheons of a milk shake and a cheese sandwich.

The gang of 25 men, fresh from pitching oat bundles, shoveling grain, driving teams and wagons, and handling the big threshing machine, sat down at a long table in the restaurant of a neighboring town and put on an exhibition of eating that should be recorded in history.

The reporter kept up with the crew for the first few minutes, but, as the pace quickened and the loaded platters became more numerous, he finally fell by the wayside, feeling like an overstuffed sofa.

The Press Edges In

When the first heaping dishes of food appeared on the table, the reporter delicately reached for a great bowl full of kidney beans before him. Before his hand reached the bowl, this vanished down the long row of diners and wound up empty at the other end. Then other dishes started going so fast the reporter couldn't take time off from passing them to get a little for himself. The first round left him worrying a piece of bread in a bewildered fashion, while his companions were stacking away the hot food.

The second round of refilled platters found him more alert and he got his share of fresh ham, cold slaw, mashed potatoes and gravy, and beans, besides mugs of steaming coffee.

Party Gets Rough

Dessert was coconut custard pie and then the reporter almost suffered serious injury. One thresher announced he didn't want his portion and held it out for the first taker. While bidding a weak 25 cents for the slice, the reporter was knocked down and brushed aside by 10 or 15 men who substituted brawn for money in the competition.

After the eating contest, the men went back to the fields and started the threshing machine. The crew is finishing work on the McCarthy farm, the last of the farms in the ring. The men were glad to see the end in sight; they have been doing little but thresh for more than a week and chores and other jobs were piling up on their home farms.

The manager reported that the 184 acres of oats on the Fox river farm yielded 12,780 bushels, an average of 69.34 bushels per acre. This is a satisfactory harvest. The men are especially pleased with the even and healthy stands of legumes in the oat stubble which promise good hay fields next year.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

GARDENERS who have snap beans that seem to be nonproductive should not uproot these plants unless they intend to replant the rows. Radishes still may be planted in such rows to mature in late September, and leaf lettuce also may be planted now. This lettuce will be ready for harvest in early October unless frosts strike unusually early.

If the bean rows are not to be replanted to these two crops, the bean plants should be left in place. Late summer rains may reactivate them so a partial crop of beans can be harvested. Mature pods now on such plants should be picked off.

Even if the beans do not produce another picking, the plants should be left available as mulching material this fall. Bean plants are ideal for covering tomato plants, celery rows, and other vegetables that require mulching at frost time.

CHARGES GREEK REGIME CREATES RIGHTIST TERROR

BY CLAY GOWRAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 23—John Sophianopoulos, who represented Greece as foreign minister at the San Francisco conference and then resigned because Regent Damaskinos refused to form a representative government, today described what is happening thruout the country. His views generally coincide with those of opponents of the Voulgaris government, who assert it is a British puppet.

"Tales of white terror are true," he said. "Democratic political leaders who attempt to campaign [for the elections next October] are in danger of their lives. Only a few days ago Petros Fikoris, Liberal party leader and minister in the old Papandreou government, was beaten by government gendarmes in Sparta when he attempted to make a political talk. Even in Athens suburbs any anti-rightist is liable to a beating or even killing at times."

"Rabid Rightists Armed"

Sophianopoulos, who was chairman of the conference between the government and leftists which followed the revolution, charged that arms surrendered by leftist guerrillas have been turned over by the government to rabid rightists and monarchists.

"I did not take arms from EAM [national liberation front] to see them given to the rightists," he said. "I thought both sides honestly were intent on peace but it seems otherwise now."

"Voulgaris is too pro-British, just like Damaskinos," he continued. "Both are intent on following the British line wherever it may lead them despite the interests of the Greek people themselves."

Sophianopoulos said, however, he expects a change in British policy soon. He continued:

"Before the revolution here Churchill was convinced King George should retain his throne as acting king abroad, but by the time he reached Athens during December at the height of the fighting he changed his mind and advocated the appointment of a regent. Similarly, I expect the Attlee government will soon see that a political representative government is what Greece needs rather than the so-called caretaker regime which is nothing but a rightist administration. Unless such a change comes, there is a chance of a bigger revolution than before.

Bevin's Policy Criticized

"Foreign Secretary Bevin [of England] has criticized the governments in Bulgaria, Hungary, and Romania as unrepresentative of the peoples' majority. But how can the British ask the Balkans to make their governments representative when right here in Greece the British themselves support an administration which is just as unrepresentative in the other direction."

Sophianopoulos reiterated the often expressed belief that unless election preparations are made truly democratic, all the leftist and middle parties will abstain from voting. This view is also held by most other anti-government leaders.

BRITISH BIRTH RATE DROPS

LONDON, Aug. 23—Britain's birth rate slumped slightly in the first quarter of this year when live births totaled 177,893, representing a rate of 17 per 1,000, compared with 17.4 in the same quarter last year. Births exceeded deaths by 20,070.

HONOLULU GOES WITHOUT GAS IN UNION STRIKE

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 23 (AP)—The gas supply for Honolulu's half million residents and for army, navy, and air facilities was exhausted today, five hours after a union "stop work" order took effect at the Iwilei plant of the Honolulu Gas company.

The order followed rejection by company officials of a proposed wage increase of 15 cents an hour for 200 employes.

Lt. Gen. Richardson, commander of the mid-Pacific ocean areas, and Vice Adm. S. A. Taffinder, commander of the 14th naval district, appealed to the company and union to reach a settlement.

RUSSIANS ASSAIL FOES OF BULGAR, ROMANIA RULE

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Moscow newspaper Izvestia termed critics of the Romanian and Bulgarian governments reactionaries today and said the approaching elections in Greece were being prepared by monarchists "under conditions of open fascist terror."

Foreign Secretary Bevin told commons this week that the governments of Romania, Bulgaria, and Hungary—all in the Russian sphere—were not truly democratic.

Secretary of State Byrnes in Washington, D. C., said virtually the same thing about Bulgaria and disclosed that King Mihai of Romania had asked the Big Three to assist in formation of a new Romanian government.

"Despite all the ravings and counter activity of reaction led by Minister of State Maniu," Izvestia said, the Romanian "government of Petru Groza from the time of its coming to power has gone squarely in the path of democracy." Izvestia was quoted in Moscow dispatches as asserting that the coming elections in Bulgaria were based on the most democratic laws in history.

NOW IS THE TIME to sow lawn seed. Every day you wait shortens the precious interval before freezing, during which days are short, rains frequent, nights cool and everything favors grass growing. New grass plants must be well established before the ground freezes.

Vaughan's Chicago Parks LAWN SEED is the standard mixture for a lawn combining the maximum of beauty with a minimum of expense and care. Its base is Kentucky Blue Grass, which is combined with other grasses in the proper proportion to produce a fine, permanent turf.

SCHENLEY DISTILLERS CORP.

HERBERT!

By MARK MERIT

This is a story about Herbert, seventeen years of age, a junior clerk in the Schenley mail-room on the 35th floor of the Empire State Building. Like his older "brothers" in the uniforms of our armed services who have been cited for heroism by the thousands, he is nothing if not modest.

It happened on that fateful day when a bomber crashed in the fog, thru one of the upper stories of the world's tallest building. Our lad was descending in the elevator to the lobby floor when the crash occurred. When the car stopped the young woman operator was in a highly nervous condition. He assisted her to the street and safety.

But he had ideas—this lad. He knew that he had left several girls in the Schenley mail-room and thought that they would be panic stricken by now. He was right. So he went back to the elevator and ran it up to the 35th floor to bring down the girls. However, they had already descended in another car. He then ran the elevator to the 41st floor—the end of the line on that bank. On his way down he stopped at every floor. Each time he opened the doors he shouted "Going down"! He brought down a carfull of highly nervous passengers. Still he didn't stop, but made repeated trips, never certain about what he would find at the top each time he got there.

Well, a week went by before this incident was reported to Schenley's president. Our young man was very much worried when he was called "on the carpet". He thought he'd be fired for running the elevator, but this story has a happy ending. Our president presented him with a war bond. And that's the story of a young man without a uniform—not even an elevator operator's uniform.

Add, that Herbert Fabian (that's his name) said, when interviewed by this recorder: "I've always wanted to run one of those things and here was my chance"!

FBI BREAKS UP $100,000 A YEAR DINING CAR FRAUD

118 Railroad Employes Are Arrested

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—A $100,000 a year dining car racket—with service men, elderly women, and inexperienced travelers as dupes—was smashed today, the FBI said, with the arrest of 118 railroad employes in four cities. The men were arrested in Chicago, New York, Newark, N. J., and Buffalo, N. Y.

The scheme was based on manipulation of civilians' food and liquor checks, kiting government meal tickets used by the fighting forces, and stretching portions, the FBI disclosed.

All those taken into custody were stewards, waiters, or cooks employed by the New York Central and the Erie railroads on several of their best trains, E. E. Conroy, special agent in charge of the New York FBI office, said.

Take Orders Orally

Conroy said these three methods of manipulating food checks were used:

Waiters would take a food order orally and then fail to submit a written check. This method was used principally on elderly persons and inexperienced travelers.

Waiters would leave blank food order checks on tables, face down or under a water pitcher and not supply a pencil. This would discourage a diner from writing out an order. When the meal was ended, the waiter would make a pretense at writing out the order and collect for the meal in cash, pocketing the money.

Waiters would present a used food check, already paid by another passenger. The food order would be taken orally. When the time came for payment, a check previously used to purchase an identical meal was presented for payment.

Agents Work as Stewards

Evidence of the scope of the activities of the train crews, Conroy said, was obtained by FBI agents who worked as stewards with the crews on runs of several trains, including the Ohio State Limited and the Knickerbocker.

Those in custody were charged with violating the general conspiracy statute by conspiring to violate the provision pertaining to theft from interstate shipment.

Conviction carries a possible maximum penalty of two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

NINE ARRESTED HERE

Nine dining car employes of the Erie railroad were arrested here yesterday and arraigned before United States Commissioner E. K. Walker. After eight pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiracy in theft of interstate shipments, their bond was fixed at $1,000 each and the hearing continued to Aug. 31.

Those arrested included Theodore Roosevelt Miller, 44, of 6147 South Parkway.; William Mathews, 34, of 5300 Calumet av.; Clarence Dumas, 49, 113 E. 57th st.; George Washington Pettis, 28, 5008 Calumet av.; Arthur Shirley, 53, 411 E. 50th st.; Jack Hamilton, 54, of 649 E. 49th st., Thomas Lane, 65, of Summit, N. J., Albert Holmes, 31, New York City, and Carl Muse, 34, of 5617 Prairie av. Only Pettis pleaded guilty.

ALDERSHOT, Hampshire, England, Aug. 23 [Reuters]—Sentences ranging from two to seven years in prison have been imposed on three Canadian soldiers convicted by a court martial of rioting here on July 4 and 5, Canadian military headquarters announced today.

Those sentenced were Corp. Emanuel Schuler, 25, Burnstall, Sask., seven years; Pvt. Lloyd Arthur States, 22, New Glasgow, N. S., five years; and Pvt. Ira Lloyd MacIntyre, 23, St. Avards, P. E. I., two years.

During the rioting Canadian soldiers smashed windows because of their alleged dissatisfaction over delay in returning home.

Get $5,000 Demand

Mrs. Margie Lowe and her daughter, Rosalie. [TRIBUNE Photo]

An extortion note demanding $5,000 from a well to do Texas widow on threat of harm to her pretty daughter, a music student at Northwestern university, was being investigated yesterday by Evanston police and the federal bureau of investigation.

Targets of the letter were Mrs. Margie Lowe, 42, and her daughter Rosalie, 17, of Dallas and Tyler, Tex., who have been living at 1462 Oak st., Evanston, but expect to return to Texas today.

The extortion note was left in the vestibule of the Lowe home at 4 p. m. Wednesday. It read:

"Mrs. Lowe: Give you till 10 tomorrow. Send $5,000 in 20 bills. Tell place later. Don't call cops or you will never see dauter."

Police Chief Carl Ekman of Evanston said it seemed to be a prank. The handwriting, he added, appeared to be that of a child.

Mrs. Lowe recently sold an apartment house in Tyler, Tex., for $17,000, and a letter concerning that transaction was stolen. She said some one knowing of the sale may be attempting extortion.

Britain Acts to Stamp Out Racket in House Prices

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 23—An official British committee today urged the government to set ceiling prices on houses at 50 per cent over their 1939 values in order to end a racket in house prices. The ceiling would be maintained five years. House prices have quadrupled. A firm near London is converting old double decker buses into houses priced at $300 to $400. Small bathrooms have been added.

FREED CAPTIVES OF NAZIS CLAIM: WE'RE NOT FREE

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MUNICH, Germany, Aug. 23—While correspondents and visitors are being taken on tours of a few model camps for displaced persons—inmates of concentration camps and foreigners who are still in Germany—conditions in out-of-the-way camps remain unsatisfactory.

In a camp at Deggendorf, Bavaria, which houses 1,700, including 700 Jews who came from a concentration camp at Theresienstadt, the inmates charge: "We were liberated in theory but in reality we are prisoners just as we were under the Nazis."

Pleads Cause of Jews

Kitty Frankfurter, formerly of Vienna, who is in her early twenties, is one of the veterans of Theresienstadt. She obtained permission to leave the Deggendorf camp in Munich to plead the cause of its Jewish inmates. She said:

"When we left Theresienstadt for the Deggendorf camp in American controled territory we thought our days of internment were over. Instead, we found ourselves forbidden to leave the camp without special passes which are strictly controled. We are inadequately fed and housed and receive no clothing from the authorities, altho as former prisoners of the Germans we have nothing."

Theoretically the displaced persons should receive 2,000 calories daily.

"That is also mere theory," said Miss Frankfurter. "Since we arrived in Deggendorf July 16 we have been fed on watery brown coffee for breakfast, soup with potatoes, peas, or beans swimming in it for lunch, and generally a similar brew for dinner. Sometimes we get potatoes with the jackets on. Two ounces of fat are granted us weekly but almost no meat. I have had one egg in a month. The 35 children in our group were to receive extra food but that also is mere theory.

Hope Conditions Improve

"The French team that has been running the camp has been replaced by an American united nations relief and rehabilitation administration team, and we are hoping that conditions will improve. But we have hoped so often that we are beginning to lose faith.

"The group, which includes a large percentage of old people are housed in barracks and many do not even have woolen covers on the wooden slats that serve as beds."

As a farm wife, Mrs. Doris Lutz, who lives south of Hobart, Ind., was hailed at the Lake county [Ind.] fair at Crown Point yesterday as an expert in all domestic pursuits.

In the first two days of the fair she had amassed 59 first place awards, 43 for second place, and five for third, a total of 107 out of 179 entries she made in domestic and fine arts contests. She won awards for canning, crocheting, knitting, embroidery, cut flowers and house plants, water color and landscape oil paintings, plaques, and relief designs.

She, her husband, Robert, who is employed in a Gary steel works, and their daughter, Rebecca, 3½, live on a nine acre farm.

Alfred Schiesser, 16, of route 4, Crown point, a basketball player at the Crown Point High school whose hobby is baking, won two first prizes and a second place award with cakes he baked.

Mrs. Nora B. Williams of 675 Adams st., Gary, who won a baby contest at the fair 73 years ago, visited the exhibits. She has missed only two fairs in the 73 years.

WANTS DOCTORS RUSHED BACK TO CIVILIAN POSTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23—Declaring the army and navy have an excess of thousands of doctors now that the war is over, Rep. Brown [R., O.] today called for a congressional investigation of the civilian physician shortage unless the military immediately steps up the release of medical men.

Brown, who is ranking member of a house public health subcommittee, told reporters the health and lives of millions of civilians are being endangered for lack of sufficient medical care. "Many communities were virtually stripped of doctors by the military during the war," Brown said. "Some of the physicians taken had little to do even at the peak of the war."

The war man power commission has reported there are about 60,000 physicians in the army, navy, and veterans' administration, or approximately 40 per cent of the country's active medical profession.

Brown said the army's point discharge system requires 107 to 120 points for doctors' releases.

SURGEONS OPEN WAY FOR NEGRO FELLOWSHIPS

Dr. Bowman C. Crowell, associate director of the American College of Surgeons, said last night that the college recently decided again to consider fellowship applications from Negroes on the basis of their "ethical, moral, and professional standing."

"For a few years we have not admitted Negroes," Dr. Crowell said. "Now they will get the same consideration as any other applicant."

Dr. Crowell reported that fellowship applications had been sent at their request to Negroes in Chicago, New York, and other cities. He added that the board of regents, which authorized the sending of applications to Negroes who asked for them, would rule on applicants. He said he believed the college received about 20 applications since it was established in 1912. Since that time fellowships have been conferred on three Negroes.

Is Janie Getting A Better Break Than Your Child?

Right from the start, Janie's mother has made sure that her daughter gets plenty of sunshine, and a diet adequate in bone-building minerals. Janie's legs will be as strong, straight, and her teeth as sound, as sufficient calcium can make them.

Will your child have these assets? While even sufficient calcium cannot correct bowed legs after a child is three, an adequate supply is important right through life to keep bones sturdy and help the child look his best. That's one of the main reasons why doctors advise that children get plenty of milk...the best food source of calcium.

However, as children get older, they are often reluctant to drink all the milk they should have.

That's where Cocomalt can prove invaluable. For Cocomalt gives milk a delicious chocolaty flavor that children love. And Cocomalt* is so rich in calcium, it makes 3 glasses of milk equal to a whole quart in calcium value. (Also supplies the day's entire minimum requirements for iron, phosphorus, Vitamins B1 and D.)

Start your children on Cocomalt today. Save this as a reminder to order from your grocer.

*3 heaping tsps. to 8-oz. glass of milk.

TRUMAN AWAITS ADVICE ON PEARL HARBOR TRIALS

Expects Recommendation of Services Soon

Assails Franco

In no uncertain terms he supported Britain's denunciation of Gen. Franco, Spanish leader, by saying he was thoroly in accord with the statement of British Foreign Minister Bevin that the Big Three do not contemplate intervention in Spain. None of us, the President added, likes Franco or his government.

Mr. Truman denied that the 40 billion dollar lend-lease program had been halted in an effort to influence the economies of lend-lease nations and Britain in particular where the labor government has recently come to power. It had been variously reported that lend-lease was cut off to serve dramatic notice on the labor government that it could not carry out its socialistic program with American financing.

Lend-lease, the President said, was a weapon of war and with the termination of hostilities for all practical purposes that weapon is no longer needed. He recalled that as Vice President he had promised on behalf of the administration to end lend-lease with the end of the war and he was carrying out his pledge.

Hits Demobilization Critics

He dismissed Dutch reports that the United States would claim portions of Greenland, Iceland and Italian colonies at the peace table, by saying curtly he knew nothing about such claims. He also refused to discuss the future of French Indo-China.

He waved aside criticism of the army and navy demobilization programs, saying that no matter what program would be adopted it would find critics. He added that he had conferred with Secretaries Stimson and Forrestal and Gen. Marshall and Adm. King and was certain each was doing his best to effect speedy and orderly demobilization.

The President again denied reports that Interior Secretary Ickes is about to resign. He said Ickes, who is setting a record for length of service every day, will stay in the cabinet as long as he wishes. Ickes is going to London shortly to renegotiate an Anglo-American oil treaty, the first treaty having been pigeonholed by the senate.

BIG PAVING JOB FACES THE CITY, JOHNSON FINDS

Survey of Chicago streets has disclosed that 8.8 per cent of the total concrete paving laid between 1937 and 1944 is in need of repair, Lloyd M. Johnson, superintendent of streets and electricity, reported yesterday to Ald. Kells [28th], chairman of a council subcommittee.

Johnson recommended for the repair work a combination of asphalt topping a concrete foundation. He said this provided a smooth, durable surface and was comparatively cheap.

Use of asphalt obviates the necessity of smooth surfacing the concrete base, he explained.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Aug. 24—British Sack Washington, D. C.

THE only invasion of Washington, D. C., by the armed forces of an enemy took place Aug. 24, 1814, during the War of 1812, when British troops marched from Bladensburg, Md., and camped just outside the limits of the capital.

The troops made camp the night of the 24th and a detachment of soldiers, under orders of the British commander, Gen. Ross, charged into the city and burned the capitol, the department buildings, and the White House.

A messenger sent by the French minister to ask a British guard for his house found Gen. Ross in the act of piling up furniture in the White House drawing room preparatory to setting it afire. Another conflagration raged in the navy yard, where the buildings and vessels were burned by order of the secretary of the navy.

Historians, while terming the burning of the public buildings a "piece of pure, unmitigated vandalism," one which was applauded by the British prince regent, also censured the Madison administration for its unpreparedness for defense.

British officers said the capture of Washington was "owing more to the faults of the Americans themselves than to any other cause." Jomini, a contemporary European military critic, expressed the great surprise of military men that a handful of British soldiers could take and burn the capital of a big nation.

After putting the torch to the public buildings, the British promptly withdrew to their fleet without firing a single musket at their enemy. The Washington campaign was completed in a little more than a week, from landing to reëmbarkation.

BELFAST HAILS IKE; GETS KEYS OF CITY TODAY

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Aug. 23 [Reuters]—Gen. Eisenhower, United States representative on the allied control council in Berlin, arrived in Belfast today by plane. Tomorrow he will receive the freedom of the city and the degree of doctor of laws at Belfast's Queens University. A large crowd cheered the American commander when he drove to Belfast opera house tonight and many rushed forward to shake his hand. When he appeared in a box with Prime Minister Basil Brooke he was cheered again and the orchestra played the American national anthem.

PROBE SLUGGING OF 2 VETERANS IN TAXICAB WAR

Chicago av. police yesterday began a belated investigation of an assault Tuesday night on Edgar Sirles, 1332 N. Bell av., president, of the American Association of Taxicab Drivers for Discharged Servicemen, and Marshall Mead, a member of the organization, by four unidentified sluggers.

Sirles and Mead, according to a report given police, were in a tavern at Chicago av. and Rush st. when the four men entered and began quarreling with them. One hit Mead in the face. Sirles struck another with a beer bottle. All four assailants then produced what were described as crank handles, and began beating the two veterans.

Sirles and Mead fled from the tavern and ran to Dearborn st., but the attackers followed in a Yellow cab, and the fight was resumed. The battle ended when Sirles and Mead jumped into the cab, whose driver had vanished, and drove away.

Sirles' organization has been pressing for issuance of 500 cab licenses for use by discharged service men in addition to the 3,000 allotted by the city council.

This is Tomorrow

The tomorrow we have been fighting and bleeding for—sweating for—praying for...

The tomorrow that seemed once might never come...

The tomorrow far off—the future day to look forward to...

Suddenly we are dazed like a man who has been carrying a heavy burden a long time, feels it lifted and forgets at first to stand erect.

Awe and gratitude, relief and hope, remembering and tears—we are too numb yet to feel.

But now we Americans have work to do....

Our sciences have grown by leaps and bounds during the war.

Our next big job is to apply those sciences to their real purpose—the progress and happiness of America and the world.

This is tomorrow. The time to begin.

EXPECT DRAFT LAW CHANGE TO SAVE VETS' JOBS

Truman Concerned Over Omission in Law

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—President Truman today told reporters he will recommend amendatory legislation, if it is found to be needed, to continue the selective service job security clause for returning veterans.

He said he was not aware of the legal technicalities of that section of the draft act insuring veterans their peace time jobs only until the end of the war, but emphasized he intended to see that such insurance is continued.

Maj. Gen. Hershey, selective service director, said in Boston last night that unless new legislation is adopted the job security provision of the selective service law will terminate with the cessation of hostilities.

War's End Delayed

The President said Hershey ought to know what he is talking about, but pointed out it will be a long time before the war is declared officially over, even tho hostilities have ceased.

When asked whether his forthcoming VJ-day proclamation would simply declare hostilities over, or formally end the war, the President said that would be determined by congress on the basis of his recommendations.

Gov. Herbert O'Conor of Maryland talked with Mr. Truman today and said the President told him he has some specific recommendations to make on guaranteeing job rights for veterans.

O'Conor declared it would be "the worst evidence of ingratitude" if these guarantees were dropped, and he said Mr. Truman expressed "deep concern" over the matter.

Sen. Thomas [D., Utah], chairman of the senate military affairs committee, said he had advised Mr. Truman of the situation more than a week ago.

In the original selective service act congress provided that every veteran who had a job would get it back if he asked for it in 90 days. It also provided that even tho other provisions of the act should be abolished, the job guarantees would go on.

Changed in Repassage

It was in the renewal of the selective service act this spring that the change was made. The act is to run until May 15, 1946, or until "the date of the termination of hostilities in the present war."

Congress added that either it or the President could declare this end to hostilities.

But unlike the original act there was no specific extension clause for job rights. It possibly was overlooked in the excitement over the drafting of 18 and 19 year olds.

Both American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars officials said today they feel sure congress will protect veterans' job rights.

Pardon me, mister, am I on the right car? I'm going to the ball game!

PRESIDENT EATS OUT—INVITED BY THE PRESIDENT!

Truman Takes Ties Along for Host

BY WILLIAM MOORE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23—No matter what the etiquet books say, it's O. K. to invite yourself to lunch—if you take your host a couple of neckties. President Truman did it today.

Even eating at the White House apparently can get monotonous, so the President telephoned yesterday to Leslie Biffle, senate secretary. Truman said he'd like to come out to the capitol for lunch today.

Biffle said it was a date because he had half a ham waiting to be eaten by the President of the United States. The senate secretary got it cooked and took it to his office today with tomatoes, potato salad, and a cranshaw melon.

Meal Fit for President

Then he invited all the senators he could find and waited. When the President arrived, Biffle got the senate cafeteria [the dining room's closed] to send over some coffee, and there he was—with a meal fit for a President.

The capitol staff was considerably impressed at having Mr. Truman back as President, instead of senator. Elevators were stopped and stairways were blocked. Secret service men peered at every one they met but couldn't keep the President from doing as he pleased. He left the luncheon table to come out and shake hands with reporters and then went back to his ham.

Mr. Truman has been keeping well dressed Washingtonians wavering between bow ties and four-in-hands, but the four-in-hand's it from now on. He was wearing a black silk one and the ones he brought Biffle were four-in-hands. One was a red plaid and the other a deep blue with white figures.

Picked Out by Truman

Biffle, a beau brummel who's inclined to bows, says he's going to wear his new ties first and use them as mementoes later.

As a matter of fact, he said, he must have a dozen ties that Mr. Truman gave him. The President likes to shop for ties and picked out Biffle's new ones himself.

About that melon: Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] wondered, too. He said it tasted like a cross between a honey dew and a casaba. That's exactly what it was. Somebody gave it to Biffle.

CURRAN DEMANDS BONUS PAY IN PACIFIC FOR MARITIME MEN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 [Special]—Joseph Curran, president of the communist dominated CIO National Maritime union, today told the maritime war emergency board that elimination of seamen's war risk bonuses might halt the return of service men from foreign theaters.

"We don't want our brothers in the armed services to find themselves stranded because ships are not properly manned, and then to blame the seamen," Curran said.

Curran appeared at a hearing called by the maritime board to consider removing seamen's bonuses for operations in the Pacific.

A letter dated Friday from the Pacific American Ship Owners' association of San Francisco, Cal., read to the hearing today, said there is no justification for bonuses now that hostilities have ended.

TOTALITARIAN DANGER SEEN IN 100% JOBS BILL

BY PHILIP DODD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23—Wrangling over the meaning of policy statements in the administration's "full employment" bill broke out in a senate banking committee hearing on the measure today when Sen. Austin [R., Vt.] warned the bill could be construed as a threat of totalitarian governmental control of industry.

Austin criticized the statement in the bill that it is the policy of the United States "to assure the existence at all times of sufficient employment opportunities to enable all Americans" to exercise their "right to useful, remunerative, regular, and full-time employment."

Hits "Double Meaning"

"The word 'assure' is a stumbling block," Austin declared. "Clarification is necessary to show that the government does not intend to take over industry by totalitarian methods. The bill contemplates further legislation to carry out its purposes, but no one knows what that legislation might be."

"That's a technicality," asserted Sen. Murray [D., Mont.], one of the bill's sponsors. He said the bill merely proposed that the government help industry "make the economic system work."

"It's not a technicality, it's a double meaning," Austin retorted.

Committee observers regarded the exchange as the forerunner of extended debate on the senate floor over the federal government's guaranteeing the right of employment to all persons.

Wins Agriculture Backing

To implement the "right to a job" policy, the bill provides that the President shall make an annual survey of national employment opportunities and contemplates that if the survey forecasts unemployment in the succeeding year, congress shall provide public works projects.

The bill was endorsed today by Agriculture Secretary Anderson, who told the committee farm production may exceed demands within the next few years and that only full employment would give the farmer a steady market for his products.

Other witnesses at today's hearing included James G. Patton, president of the National Farmers union, and Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, president of the Federal Council of Churches, both of whom supported the bill.

Foster av. beach will be invaded by 100 marines, navy personnel, and coast guardsmen Monday, Sept. 3, at 7:30 p. m. The "attack" will be staged by combat veterans who will arrive in Chicago aboard the LST-512, navy exhibit ship.

Marines will attack "Jap" pillboxes with 37 mm. cannon and flame throwers. The beachhead will be established amid exploding land mines, simulated by TNT planted in the water along the beach.

Marine Capt. David I. Zeitlin of Detroit, who took part in campaigns of Guam, Vella La Vella, and Iwo Islands, will describe the demonstration over a public address system used by beach masters during an assault. Zeitlin holds the Purple Heart and the silver star.

The LST-512 will be open for public inspection from Sunday, Sept. 2, thru Tuesday, Sept. 11, near Michigan av. bridge. Visiting hours will be from noon to 9:30 p. m. daily.

Fake Arrest Extortion Is Charged to Salesman

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

GOULD HEIRESS DIVORCED; WED A FOURTH TIME

Virginia City, Nev., Aug. 23 (AP)—Anne Douglass Gould, 29, heiress to the Jay Gould millions, late today was married to Violinist Donald Valentine, a few hours after her divorce in Reno from army Cpl. Ezra Wogoman of Cody, Wyo., former guitar playing cowboy now stationed at Camp Lee, Va.

Mrs. Anna Gould Wogoman

Her fourth marriage was performed by Justice of the Peace William H. Pollard.

Mrs. Valentine, disclosed she and her husband would live in a Reno house she bought. She said she had known Valentine for 10 years and had met him many times while he was traveling with a wandering cowboy orchestra.

In divorcing Wogoman, Mrs. Valentine charged desertion and nonsupport, as did Wogoman in a cross-complaint. He said he sold his automobile to raise $50 to marry the heiress after she persuaded him to give up his guitar playing, at which he was earning $24 a week, because she had ample means to support both of them.

She did support him, Wogoman related, from May 1, 1941, until their marriage Aug. 23 of that year, then she deserted him.

ROCKFORD POLIO CASES INCREASE; 2 MORE DEATHS

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 23 [Special]—Ten more cases of infantile paralysis and two more deaths from the disease were reported in the last 24 hours in the Rockford area.

This increased total deaths to 21 and cases to 179 since July 1. Despite these increases, physicians at the headquarters of the Winnebago County Infantile Paralysis Foundation said the outbreak is on the decline on the basis of figures concerning the disease's incidence of onset.

The army meantime is making a survey of effects of spraying a part of the city with DDT, the powerful new insecticide, but has indicated it will not have a report for several weeks, probably until after cold weather had halted the outbreak.

WHO GETS HONG KONG?

The Chinese surrender terms to Japan provide that the former British crown colony of Hong Kong is to be occupied by Chinese troops. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek justifies his action because he is the supreme commander of the China theater and Hong Kong is in that theater. The British foreign office, however, states that Hong Kong is part of the British empire and that it will be reoccupied like any other port, but that British troops will not race the Chinese to get there first.

After Japan went to war the United States relinquished all extraterritorial rights in China. The British followed suit, but made an exception as to Hong Kong. The problem may prove vexatious to both China and Britain, but in view of Chiang's present troubles with the Chinese Communists, he may not be in a position to oppose eventual British action to repossess the island.

Britain's title to Hong Kong goes back to 1840, when it was seized during the opium war. Britain was confirmed in possession of the island when the treaty of Nanking was signed with China in 1842. The treaty also opened Canton, Amoy, Foochow, Ningpo, and Shanghai as treaty ports. The war resulted from Chinese attempts to suppress the importation of opium by British and other foreign traders. Hostilities commenced in 1839 and resulted in a series of Chinese defeats in battles with the British south of the Yangtze river. After China's defeat the United States also obtained trade concessions, but the American commissioner, Caleb Cushing, agreed that any American nationals found to be engaged in the opium traffic were not entitled to the protection of the American government. Britain agreed to no such reservation.

Britain remained firmly entrenched in the island of a million population until the Japanese attacked on Dec. 7, 1941. Hong Kong was defended by 20,000 British, Canadian, and Sikh troops, who were first driven back from the Kowloon peninsula on the mainland, and later were unable to prevent Japanese landings in force on the island. When the Japanese seized the water reservoirs and the mains were destroyed by bombardment, the thirsty defenders were compelled to surrender after a campaign of 19 days. Of 1,985 Canadians who arrived just before the attack, 296 were killed and the remainder taken prisoner. About 2,100 British were killed and more than 12,000 surrendered.

China's ease for return of the island rests upon the facts that Britain originally acquired it by force in what Chinese would consider an unjust war, and that no more than 20,000 of the million persons living on the island have been Europeans or Americans.

RESCRIPTS

The word "rescripts" is bobbing up frequently in the news stories dealing with Emperor Hirohito's role in the surrender of Japan. The news department has endeavored to clarify the matter for our readers with the observation that an imperial rescript goes beyond Webster's definition of it as "an official or authoritative order, decree, or the like." The emperor, it was pointed out, in his supposed direct descent from the sun goddess, is conceded divine authority, so that his subjects accept his rescripts as already accomplished historical truth and obey them without question.

Sir William Blackstone, in the Commentaries, observes, "Whenever any doubt arose upon the construction of the Roman laws, the usage was to state the case to the emperor in writing and take his opinion upon it. The answers of the emperor were called rescripts and these had in succeeding cases the force of perpetual laws."

We are not unfamiliar with rescripts in our own country. Burocrats, with no title to divine authority, have introduced the system into American law. Their countless regulations, from those of Gen. Hershey regarding selective service to those of the OPA defining prices, have come to be binding upon the public. The Supreme court, which might be thought to offer some protection to the citizen, is so confused these days that most of its decisions are by 5 to 4.

There is little more effective appeal from burocratic rescript than from the imperial ones. The intent of congress is frequently twisted and tortured to meet the whims of arbitrary executive power. Normal protection would seem to lie in a return to fair and rational interpretation of the laws. The fairest and most rational method to interpret the will of the legislator is to explore his intentions at the time the law was made, by signs the most natural and probable. These signs are either the words, the context, the subject matter, the effect and consequences, or the spirit and reason of the law.

A simple procedure, it would seem. But how often will the burocrat examine the Congressional Record to determine the intentions of the legislation under which he receives his power, and how assiduously will he study the debate to learn the bounds within which he is intended to function? How many times has the Supreme court also evaded study of legislative debate to learn exactly what congress intended? All too often, it seems clear. The justices are too eager to launch into their own rationalization of what the intent of congress might have been, instead of discovering exactly what it was. The result is still, as Mr. Justice Roberts remarked, that nothing added to nothing does not make something.

TIME TO GO HOME

Our navy is rapidly evacuating its bases and naval air stations in England, France, and Italy. All the air bases in the United Kingdom have been closed and only a handful of ships remain based there. We have no more than token forces at Marseilles, Le Havre, and Palermo.

This is a natural development of the peace. As Adm. H. Kent Hewitt, commander of our forces in European waters, said, the United States has no plan for permanent naval bases on that continent. Those that we have been using were occupied only to save England and France, and now that that task has been accomplished we are coming home.

There is an analagous situation in American waters, where both Great Britain and France have maintained naval bases since the days when they had colonial rivalries and aspirations on this continent. Both the rivalry and the aspirations are dead. Canada, the only considerable possession left to either nation in the western hemisphere, is within the loose bonds of the British commonwealth, almost an independent nation, which during the war built its own navy, and which hereafter may expect and be expected to provide its own defense, implemented when necessary by its neighborly relations with the United States.

The remaining British and French bases in North America and the Caribbean are of no utility to either nation. They exist only as a threat to the United States. England and France should evacuate them immediately. Their further retention is unfriendly and out of date. It is not necessary, perhaps, in all instances that American use of these bases be secured for the proper defense of this country. The mere dismantling of some of them probably would be adequate. They have no real utility, but they remain an aggravation to this country.

THE AIRMEN

The percentage of losses suffered by army, navy, and marine flyers from Pearl Harbor to the capitulation of Japan is disclosed as having been higher than in any other branch of service. Thru May 31 the army air forces in Europe suffered battle casualties totaling 93,000. Of these, 24,000 men were killed, 23,000 were listed as missing, and 31,000 were prisoners. When final figures are compiled it is expected that army air force dead will total between 35,000 and 40,000 dead for the three years of the fighting in Europe.

This toll reflects the extraordinary demands placed upon the air force. In Europe airmen flew 1,689,000 sorties. They dropped 1,555,000 tons of bombs. Individual airmen of the army air forces crossed enemy lines and penetrated deep into German territory 7,235,562 times. That is equivalent to 482 divisions of 15,000 men going "over the top."

In the Pacific the demands upon our flyers were correspondingly heavy. Figures are not as complete as for Europe, but in proportion to forces engaged the losses among airmen were relatively as heavy as in Europe, while the nature of the war in the Pacific may have imposed an even heavier burden of work upon the flyers. In the great amphibious struggle control of the land was dependent upon control of the air. From the earliest days of the war army, navy, and marine flyers were constantly in action. Pitifully outnumbered at the start, they built up the massive strength which finally reduced Japan.

Gen. George C. Kenney's 5th air force alone destroyed 11,900 Japanese planes for certain, and may have destroyed as many as 16,500. The navy, thru last October, had destroyed 11,000 planes, and probably has added at least 5,000 more to that toll against waning Jap resistance. The B-29 Super Fortresses, in 32,612 flights against Japan, sustained losses of 437 planes and more than 3,000 airmen, but in the course of their assault completely knocked out 59 major industrial cities and crippled six others severely. In addition, our airmen took a tremendous toll of Jap shipping and at the finish had completely severed Japan's lifelines.

Air war is expensive war—expensive in production, expensive in training personnel, expensive in losses of ships and crews. But, if it is successful, it is even more expensive to the enemy. It shattered German industry and transportation and provided an indispensable protective canopy to our advancing ground troops. From carriers and from the bases seized by our gallant soldiers and marines American airmen in the Pacific were finally able to bring Japan to its knees without a costly invasion. Even without the terrifically destructive atomic bomb our flyers probably would have forced the surrender.

The Japanese made much of their vaunted kamikaze suicide corps, as the Nazis before them had boasted of the invincible luftwaffe, but neither the Japs nor the Germans could withstand the skill, the courage, and the tenacity of American flyers. Never before, and in this war only in America, were such sacrifices ever demanded in war. The devotion of our airmen is a high spot in the glory America has achieved, which all of the nation humbly recognizes.

THE JAPS HAD A WORD—

We buttonholed our favorite Japanese expert, Mr. Whiteing of the cable news department, and asked:

'What is the meaning of the word 'itchiban,' which has occasionally appeared in dispatches, especially during the fighting on Guadalcanal? It seemed to indicate élite troops."

He gave half a dozen synonyms: Number one, first-class, top-notch, tip-top, superfine, best yet.

• • •

In our memory, "itchiban" is associated with a song and dance number delivered by Fred Stone in the good old years of musical comedy—either in "The Red Mill," 1906, or "The Old Town," 1909. The American stage has lost that kind of gayety—and let's have no back-talk about "Oklahoma," which is, at heart, a rather morbid fantasy about potential rape. We asked Mr. Whiteing if he remembered the song, but he said, "I was in Japan then." So we sang [?] the few lines we remembered, softly.

• • •

The Rooshian and the tough Chinee,
They have good cause to envy me . . .
I'd rather fight than drink my tea.
Itchiban! Catch a man! Japanee!

Mr. Whiteing smiled at this echo of the past, and politely remarked, "Your Japanese accent is itchiban."

• • •

And now, from the invaded mainland of Asia and the far-flung islands of the South Seas, Nippon's delusion of superiority will be itchibanished.

POST-WAR BUTTONS

I rise to toast the Post-War World, with flags unfurled and head a-whirled
[In a spiffy autogiro I've a yen to autogyrate],
For like a million other lads who've read these ads of post-war fads,
I want my share of gadgets tho I'm forced to pay a high rate.
The world at hand [already planned, I understand], is simply grand:
We'll sleep on diathermic beds and dine on short-waved muttons;
From here to there we'll go by air, without a care and time to spare;
A life now full of toil and tasks will soon be filled with buttons!

Buttons pushed to turn the wheels, and cook the meals, and work the deals;
Buttons pushed to clean the floors and close the open winders;
Buttons pushed to shell the peas, to heat or freeze [or both of these];
Buttons pushed to overcome each obstacle that hinders. . . .

Yet I detect a looming cloud [which in this new age ain't allowed!]
And here reveal it, tho I hear the post-war planners shushing:
They have those same unprescient, unomniscient, inefficient,
Old-fashioned human beings who'll be doing all the pushing!

Voice of the Cuckoo

In this country, when you say some one is "cuckoo" you mean he is silly, which annoyed mother.

"In Denmark," she said, "the cuckoo is considered a wise bird." She stopped and smiled at us. "It goes about laying eggs in nests of other birds, who hatch them and raise the little ones for her. So a cuckoo has all the benefits of a family but none of the responsibilities, and that has its good points.

"We had a little song we sang to it in Danish," she went on, "which went like this:

"Cuckooman, cuckooman, sing,
How many years will you bring?"

"Then we would count the 'cucks' and 'koos,' and that would be the number of years we would live."

We looked. We listened. We wondered, and we asked her: "Did you find out how many years you would live, mother?"

"O, bless you, no," she exclaimed. "That was only a game we played. You cannot play it here, because there are no cuckoo birds."

But she could see her story had set little minds to working, and it distressed her no end. She arose and found suddenly there were many household duties urgently in need of doing.

"Cuckooman, cuckooman, sing,
How many years will you bring?"

Roy Engel

THE TOY TOUCAN

[A Brookfield Ballad]

A tiny, Venesuelan bird
Who well deserves a kindly word,
I introduce the toucanet—
[One must conform to etiquet.]
His tail is short, his bill is long,
Which prompts conclusions wholly wrong,
For all who watch him roundly swear
He's flying backward thru the air!
But unconcerned by what they say
He wings serenely on his way;
So if you have your goal in view
Don't let the crowd discourage you.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

Mrs. T. G. asks: "How long will I continue to receive my family allowance from the government after my husband is discharged from the service? I have been told he will be out in another month. How can I find out when he is discharged?"

Family allowance ceases the next month after the enlisted man is discharged. If he is discharged in August, you will get your final check in September. The allowance is considered to have been earned in the previous month, and the deduction will be made from the enlisted men's final pay. The final check will be evidence he has been separated from service.

H. E. writes: "I was released from the army to work in a war plant and later received an honorable discharge. Since then I have been disabled. Am I entitled to a pension?"

Veterans of World War II. who are disabled after service are not entitled to pension unless the disability is rated total and permanent by the veterans' administration rating board.

R. B. asks: "Where can I obtain full information about the rights of veterans to pensions, education, and other benefits paid by the government?"

A pamphlet, "Veterans' Benefits," may be obtained from the superintendent of documents, Washington 25, D. C., for 15 cents a copy. This booklet contains comprehensive information for veterans and their dependents.

THICK BLOODED

ANEMIA is a household word and it is common knowledge that the number of red corpuscles and the amount of hemoglobin are reduced. On the other hand, few are familiar with an ailment known as "polycythemia vera" in which there are too many red cells and far too much hemoglobin. These people are really "thick blooded."

The disorder is encountered only occasionally, and science is still baffled as to its cause. It is more common in middle aged men and in some cases there is a family predisposition. The sufferer usually presents a striking appearance for, in contrast to those who are anemic, these individuals have a ruddy complexion with purplish lips and fingernails.

The condition is capable of bringing on bizarre symptoms. Because the brain is overwhelmed with blood, headache, giddiness, ringing in the ears, and insomnia are common. Many are so fatigued that even thinking of working is too much of a chore. Other regions of the body are frequently disturbed. The extremities may feel uncomfortably warm due to the increased blood supply. Shortness of breath sometimes indicates trouble with the pumping organ.

Among the complications which may develop is the tendency toward spontaneous clotting within an artery or vein. When this occurs, the circulation to a limb or organ may be seriously impaired and an entirely new group of complaints ensues.

The malady can be treated in a number of ways. Repeated blood letting is popular and when the desired quantity is withdrawn, symptoms may disappear, with the return of the count to normal. In an effort to reduce the activity of the blood-forming organs, X-ray treatments over the long bones and spleen have been employed. The excess cells can also be destroyed by the use of phenylhydrazine or Fowler's solution.

These drugs should be used only by a skilled medical man, for overdosage may prove disastrous. To prevent untoward effects the vital fluid is checked frequently. The diet indicated in anemia is naturally taboo in this abnormality.

Polycythemia vera is not present in every one who exhibits a high red count and hemoglobin. This situation may accompany difficulty in breathing, such as results from heart trouble or chronic lung disease. Those who live in high altitudes are also afflicted in an effort to compensate for the low oxygen content in the air. If we studied the circulation following severe dehydration due to excessive sweating, violent exercise, vomiting, or diarrhea we would find a similar concentration.

When we consider that billions of red cells are formed daily, it is understandable that once in a while the controling mechanism will go out of commission. As a rule, however, the production line operates smoothly.

BARRING DIABETES

P. G. writes: Are there any measures a person can adopt that will help ward off diabetes?

REPLY

Assuming that it is a hereditary disease, first and foremost is to walk to the altar with some one who is free of the illness. Other precautions include avoidance of overweight, limitation of carbohydrate intake, keeping resistance high to safeguard against infections, and sufficient exercise.

PUT AND TAKE

H. F. writes: For what condition is an addition diet prescribed?

REPLY

In food allergy to determine what is responsible for the symptoms. The patient is placed on a restricted diet to which other foods are added gradually. Whenever a reaction occurs and the irritant is detected, it is removed. This regimen is known also as the "elimination diet."

NOT CLEAR

H. B. writes: What is the cause of a cloudy urine?

REPLY

Diet is perhaps one of the chief factors that influences the appearance of the urine. In this instance a vegetable diet, with resulting phosphate wastes, may be responsible. The presence of pus is also known to affect its transparency.

LEG CRAMPS

Mrs. M. B. writes: What is responsible for cramps in the legs?

REPLY

Increased muscle irritability caused by strain or poor circulation. Near-by sources of infection must be considered.

Social Notes from All Over

Corp. Whitt N. Schultz writes from Oahu that there's been a little mixup in logistics in the Pacific area. Snowplows were delivered to Iwo Jima and Okinawa the other day.

Nor is life on Guam as barren as it might seem. A four star general has his own putting green outside his luxurious island home.

A discharged Honolulu bus driver stole a bus a few months ago, established his own bus route on the island, and earned up to $90 a day for several days. Then the law caught up with him.

The hazards of war apparently are ended for all except sweet old Gen. Patton. A wirephoto from Paris yesterday showed him returning to a French officer the Napoleonic battle flags stolen by the Nazis. He still had that helmet, with its four silver stars, hunched over his ears.

For the embattled home front, however, the war is over. A lady we know came home from a vacation this week to find that her cook, who had triumphed over her magnificently during the long years of war, had baked a big chocolate cake. On the top of it, in fat white icing, was "Welcome home!"

A little marine photographer, Sgt. Glenn Fitzgerald, veteran of four Pacific campaigns, passed thru town the other day on his way home from Okinawa. He says it is still the jumping off place for the world, where a man eats eight pounds of dust before each meal. The snakes, who maintained a heartening absence during the long fight for the island because it was winter, now are replacing the Japs as deadly enemies. He classified these snakes as adders, amiable unless stepped on or ventured near, but omnipresent and very large with a bite that is immediate and poisonous. The natives carry jack-o-lanterns at night to ward them off, but the marines merely try to keep their distance. That is, all except a few practical jokers who find dead snakes, coil them with the heads sticking up, and then hide until a colleague comes along, jumps 10 feet, and pumps the coil full of lead from his .45. You have to be a marine to think that funny, but they do. Two weeks ago, when he left, the snakes were still there, the Japs were still raiding, and geisha girls in gay kimonos with babies strapped to their backs were still turning out to be Jap soldiers wearing false bosoms. Morale was not excitingly high.

More on War Time Censors

Thruout the long war no one, try as he might, could ever fathom what logic governed the reasoning of the military censor. The late Tom Treanor, war correspondent of the Los Angeles Times who was killed in France, summarized the dilemma of correspondents concisely when he sub-titled his book ["One Damned Thing After Another"] as "The Adventures of an Innocent Man Trapped between Public Relations and the Axis." Censorship presumably was set up for military security, but it stopped at nothing, especially not at the nuance. Jack Thompson, Tribune war correspondent, tells of an incident in the early days of the nonfraternization policy in Europe when not only the high command, but the censors as well, were very jittery about it. One of his colleagues wrote a general story on the situation at Aachen, still under attack. In the course of his story, to illustrate a point, he referred to a deep cellar serving as an air raid shelter. During the bitter fighting around the town a GI and an enemy woman both crouched there two hours while the dive bombers and the heavy artillery raged. The writer wanted to explain the proximity of enemies under a common danger and used the phrase "a subtle chemistry filled the air." The censors deleted it. Fraternization.

A MODEST REQUEST FOR A 30 BILLION DOLLAR HANDOUT

Oak Park, Ill., Aug. 21—R. T. Frankensteen, vice president of the UAW [CIO] and a nominee for mayor of Detroit, has suggested that 30 billion dollars appropriated for war and not used should now be used to pay released war workers a salary of $25 a week just to loaf.

The American people have been paying taxes thru the nose to pay bloated wages to war workers, and they in turn were continually striking for more money and over puny grievances. Now they want to milk the taxpayers for wages while they are loafing. Many white collar workers did not earn even $25 a week all thru the war. If these war workers had saved their money, instead of squandering it on horse betting, fancy clothes, and two and three dollar steaks, perhaps they could loaf a while on their own resources.

NO BRIBES

Chicago, Aug. 17—Referring to "Apartment Hunting" by J. S., this date: There has been too much of a tendency in recent years to try and discredit other people by inferences and innuendoes. I, as a realtor, resent his remarks. In fact, I don't believe any of his statements. He infers that a real estate office hinted to him for a bribe to find him an apartment. From my experience, J. S. is probably the one who did the hinting. If J. S. came into my office he would be frankly told that we would be only too glad to help him if we had a vacancy. But due to circumstances far beyond our control we have no vacancies and have had no tenant to move in more than two years. He would also be told that we would not accept his hint even if $500 were offered. We do not tolerate taking advantage of people in his circumstances in these trying times. We would rather help than hurt. R. C. CRAWFORD

NO CREDIT FOR BATTLE

Blue Island, Ill., Aug. 21—Navy justice and fair play have been utterly ignored in the point system for discharge. The boys who enlisted before Pearl Harbor held the Japs back practically with bare hands, and took MacArthur from island to island, are all told now, "Throw away your ribbons and combat stars. They mean nothing in the navy!"

By this shortsighted, unjust action of basing discharge only on age, dependents, and service [not combat service] the navy has broken faith with thousands of young men who enlisted long before Pearl Harbor, and with their families, and is rewarding the chair-warming "gold brick" just as much as these who have smelled salt water and done the fighting.

VICTORY YET TO MATERIALIZE

Chicago, Aug. 20—We had a V E-day and a V J-day, but when will we have a V B-day—a victory over the 3½ million burocrats who tell us what we must eat and what we must wear and what we must think? WM. V. HARRISON

ANOTHER PESSIMIST

Chicago, Aug. 15—Why all the fuss about the horror of the atomic bomb? I see no difference between killing 100,000 people with one bomb, and killing 100,000 with 100 bombs. If bombs are here to stay, so be it—the bigger they are, the more damage they can cause, and the more people they can kill, the better.

Gunpowder, the machine gun, the tank, the submarine, the airplane, poison gas—all had their day as the weapon which would make nations afraid to wage war. But they have kept right on waging it.

The atom bomb will pass in time. It too, will give way to something new, and finally become as obsolete as the bow and arrow. New weapons will be discovered, capable of killing not tens of thousands in one fell swoop, but millions. Possibly the day will come when it will be possible to wipe out an entire nation at one blow. By that time, wars won't last for years. They will be over in a few hours. There will be no declaration of war, no diplomatic bickering, no surrender. No one will be left to surrender, and there will be nothing left to conquer. Even the victor may perish in the ruins he has created.

Then we will see the end of war. That will be the final war to end wars. It will destroy everything, and every one. And, if I do say so myself . . . good riddance! JAMES STEWART

IMPROVEMENT OVER SINATRA

Chicago, Aug. 21—I take issue with "Just a School Teacher," who criticizes the 'teen aged girls for their interest in the singing of Attilio Baggiore. All along they have tried to encourage in schools and homes an interest in classic art and literature on the part of school age folks, and in classical music, instead of only the funnies and boogie-woogie. Now with this apparently accomplished, "Just a School Teacher" complains. Tho the words they use to express their feeling of appreciation sound rather unrefined, isn't it fine that members of the 'teen aged group now are paying some attention to Mr. Baggiore, instead of showering their undivided admiration on Mr. Frank Sinatra? GOLFING ACCIDENT

Chicago, Aug. 21—Is a golfer responsible for an accident which happened in the following manner? He was playing in a foursome and was the last one to tee off. Before he made his drive one of the players left the tee and was about 50 feet from it when he was struck in the eye by the ball. According to my understanding of the game, no one in a foursome should start walking until the last player has teed off. Can the man who was hit under the foregoing circumstances expect to recover damages? R. F.

No. Where both parties are to blame, no recovery is authorized.

PREDICTS 95TH DIVISION WON'T GO TO PACIFIC

Sen. Lucas Expects Delay on Orders

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23—Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] indicated today after communicating with war department officials that he believes the 95th army division may not be sent to the Pacific.

Members of the division, who saw considerable action in Europe, have been protesting against being sent overseas again in telegrams and letter to members of congress.

Lucas, who is at his Illinois home, issued a statement from his Washington office that the division is not to be shipped overseas in any event until after the occupation of Japan is begun.

Expects Change in Plans

"A peaceful and unopposed occupation of Japan," he said, "will very likely affect the proposed embarkation of many individuals in the 95th, if not the division itself, because of the possibility of further lowering of point values of men scheduled to be sent to the Pacific and other changes brought about by a decrease in the number of men needed in Japan."

Lucas said the division, now at Hattiesburg, Miss., deserves special consideration and he will work to that end.

A Corporal Protests

From various parts of the country, meantime, came reports of more protests and some action in behalf of the veterans. Authorities at Randolph field, San Antonio, Tex., and Ellington field, Houston, Tex., said enlisted men in the army air forces central flying training command who have an adjusted service rating score of 55 or more will not be sent overseas unless they volunteer.

At Louisville, Ky., Corp. Lowell D. Reed, member of the 18th air borne corps stationed at Camp Campbell, Ky., declared in a telegram to the Associated Press that the war department is attempting to "confuse and evade the issue" by its announcement that men with 75 points or more will not be sent overseas.

At Santa Maria, Cal., men of the headquarters 13th corps said it would be a gross injustice to ship them to the Pacific after they have just returned from combat duty in Germany.

"You've shown lots of courage, son, but how are you going to feel about going back to school in the same class with your kid brother?"

ICKES INCREASES COAL TO EUROPE; RETAINS U. S. CUT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 [Special]—Solid Fuels Administrator Ickes today announced the volume of bituminous coal which could be sent to Europe by the end of this year can now be raised from 6 to 8 million tons. He said it will be necessary, however, to continue the 20 per cent war time cut in coal for eastern householders. He also warned against a five day work week for miners.

Other government agencies meantime reported the following reconversion action:

The army canceled contracts for 80 million pounds of dehydrated foods, a 40 per cent cut in the total it had been scheduled to take from 1945 production. It also canceled contracts for more than 14 million packages of cigaret tobacco, all contracts for soluble coffee and 600,000 pounds of canned processed cheese, and for 10 million pairs of footgear.

The war production board revoked orders limiting use of wire screening and controling production of paper bags, insect screen wire, cork and cork products, and asbestos for brake linings.

Civilians will be able to buy household appliances months sooner than was expected a month ago. Electric ranges are expected on the market by December, some washing machines by January, electric fans by Christmas. Refrigerators will be off rationing by mid-October.

The office of price administration ruled out any increase in sugar rations this year, said clothing prices would be held firmly, and predicted an early return of many textiles to store shelves.

PRE-WAR GAS READY FOR CITY MOTORISTS, OIL EXPERTS ASSERT

Pre-war quality gasoline, 76 octane regular and 79-80 high test or premium, will be available to motorists thruout the Chicago area this week-end, petroleum experts said yesterday.

They asserted that virtually every gas station tank in the city and its environs, as well as thru a wide midwest section, would be filled with the same quality of regular and high test motor fuel common before the attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941.

Dr. Gustav Egloff, petroleum technician for the Universal Oil Products company, said also that many companies will soon place on sale a satisfactory 60 octane gasoline. He added that car owners whose battered and long-tried vehicles can take the 60 octane without developing too much knock, will "only be wasting money to purchase any higher quality."

The right sauce is an improvement for almost any variety of baked, broiled, or fried fish. Lean fish need it because they tend to be dry, and fat varieties are enhanced with a tart dressing.

Mayonnaise, the basis of most tartar sauces, is almost too precious to use. But sour cream makes a sauce that is equally good if not as well known.

Sour Cream Sauce

½ cup thick sour cream
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice
Salt, pepper, and celery salt

Combine ingredients, seasoning to taste. A little scraped onion or onion juice may be added, if desired.

The following hot tartar sauce may be used on either lean or fat fish:

Hot Tartar Sauce

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup water
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon paprika
Few grains of mace [optional]
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped sour pickle
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Melt half the butter and blend in flour. Add water to which beaten egg and seasonings have been added. Cook until thick and smooth. Remove from stove and blend in remaining butter, parsley, onion, pickle, and lemon juice.

Cucumbers, so plentiful now, are a perfect complement to fish. The one made with cream is for lean fish, the cucumber lemon sauce for fat fish.

Cucumber Sauce for Fish

2 small cucumbers, diced
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar
½ cup chilled, day-old coffee cream, whipped

Combine cucumber, salt, pepper, and lemon juice. Chill. Fold into whipped cream. Commercially soured cream may be substituted for coffee cream, if desired.

Cucumber Lemon Sauce

Peel three medium cucumbers, remove the larger seeds, and grate. Drain; season with 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon paprika, and ½ teaspoon salt.

Tomato sauce can be used for any type of baked or broiled fish and is excellent with fish loaf.

Creole Sauce

2 tablespoons margarine, melted
¼ cup chopped onion
1 small clove garlic
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 cup canned tomatoes, sieved

Cook onion, green pepper, and garlic in margarine until tender. Remove garlic. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 15 minutes.

Enough Soap for All If No Hoarding, Says Industry Spokesman

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 23 (AP)—There's enough soap to go around and more in prospect, but hoarding makes it tough to get, a spokesman for the country's largest soap manufacturer said today.

"We're making as much soap per capita in the United States as we did 10 years ago, and, while the demand is greater, there's enough for every one if people would stop hoarding," declared W. G. Werner, public relations director of the Procter & Gamble company. "Altho it is next to impossible to ration soap, somehow the rumor got around that it was going on the ration list, and as a result housewives began to hoard."

More soap will be available for the public soon because the army has canceled all soap orders after Oct. 1 and "we expect the sources of fats and oils taken by the Japs to be open to us after the first of the year," Werner said.

5 Red Ration Stamps and Sugar Coupon to Become Valid Sept. 1

Five more red stamps will be validated Saturday, Sept. 1, for meats and fats, the office of price administration announced yesterday in Washington, D. C. At the same time, the OPA said, sugar stamp 38 in ration book 4 will become valid for five pounds of sugar.

The new red point stamps are L1, M1, N1, P1, and Q1. Each is worth 10 points and will be good for the usual period of four months—Sept. 1 thru Dec. 31.

The present sugar stamp, 36, will not be good after next Friday. The OPA explained that stamp 38 instead of stamp 37 will be validated for sugar because many home canners mistakenly mailed stamp 37 to local ration boards last year in applying for special canning allotments.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 23 (AP)—Aluminum kitchenware is back. Heavy pots and pans of every shape and size, as well as aluminum parts of numerous household appliances long absent from store counters, are rolling off the Monarch assembly lines with a minimum of confusion, President Raymond Deutsch said.

Lake Geneva Season Is On in Full Swing

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 23—The Butternuts, the Lake Geneva home of Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, big as it is, has been overflowing with family members this week. The junior Kellogg Fairbanks just returned from five weeks at the Diamond G. ranch in Wyoming with three of their four children, Margaret Ayer, 9; Laurie, who was convalescing from a bout with scarlet fever, and Kellogg III., who always is called Kettie by the family. Kettie will enter kindergarten this fall. Baby Susan, 2 years old, was left at Lake Geneva with her grandmother.

The children's aunt, Miss Janet Fairbank, also was at the ranch, as was Mrs. Josephine Patterson Reeves, with her two children, Joseph and Alice. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Fairbank are at the Butternuts, but will return to their home in Cambridge, Mass., next week. The Fairbank home, a perfect example of the East Lake period of victorianism, was built in 1875 and is one of the first country homes built by Chicagoans at the lake.

Exciting news was received this week at The Knoll, another of the oldest homes at the lake, when Dr. and Mrs. William P. Finney heard from their son, 1st Lt. William P. Finney III., a pilot in the army air forces. He wrote home that he had the thrill of watching the atomic bomb do its deadly work from an observation plane many miles away. Young Mrs. Finney, Bill's wife, the former Grace Hurt of Shreveport, La., is now staying at The Knoll.

Dr. and Mrs. William H. Lippitt and their two small daughters, Theodora IV., and Alice Walker Lippitt, are also at The Knoll. Mrs. Lippitt is the former Theodora Finney. The other Finney children, Pamela, Ellen, and Samuel, who is named for his maternal grandfather, are active members of the Belfry Players this year. Pam is stage manager for the present and final production of the season, "The Male Animal," which opens tonight in the Players' Williams Bay theater, and continues thru Sept. 2.

Ellen, who is to enter Vassar this fall, and Miss Tanisse Twyman are in charge of stage properties, and 14 year old Sam is a member of the production crew. Pam and Sam were in the cast of "Kiss and Tell," one of the Players' recent productions.

Miss Ellen Rumsey Wheeler of Fairfield, Conn., sister of Mrs. Finney, and Miss Gertrude Rouse of Baltimore, Md., cousin of Dr. Finney, are other guests at The Knoll. Miss Eliza Rumsey and Mrs. Treat Campbell, both of Pasadena, Cal., have had to forego their usual trip to the lake this summer because of travel restrictions, and have gone instead to Santa Barbara, Cal., for several weeks. Miss Twyman is the daughter of the Robert Twymans of North State pkwy., who last year purchased the Lake Geneva home of the late Sidney Smith.

One of the gayest parties of the Lake Geneva summer season is the annual farm dinner and auction sale. It will be held tomorrow night in the Big Foot Country club. An old fashioned chicken barbecue will be served at 6:30 p. m. and there will be Indian dances with real Indians in authentic costumes of Wisconsin's native tribes. Many rare items have been secured for the auction.

Margaret Sheldon's Betrothal to Orrin Potter Jr. Revealed

BY JUDITH CASS

WHEN Miss Margaret Sheldon, elder daughter of the Theodore Sheldon's of Winnetka, returns week after next from a visit to the Orrin W. Potters' E Bar L ranch in Greenough, Mont., she will be wearing an engagement ring given to her by the Potters' son, Mr. Potter Jr. Many of Miss Sheldon's Chicago friends met the young westerner when he visited her family in Winnetka last Christmas.

Young Mr. Potter's family has connections here, as his great-grandfather, Orrin W. Potter, lived in Lake Shore dr. for many years. The late Mr. Potter had a summer home in Lake Geneva, Wis., where Miss Sheldon's great-grandfather, Gen. Henry Strong, also was a summer resident.

Miss Sheldon, a debutante of the 1943 season, was graduated from Miss Wheeler's school in Providence, R. I., and later studied at the Child Education Foundation in New York. She has one sister, Polly, who will leave Tuesday to return to her senior year at Vassar college. The two young women are granddaughters of Mrs. Theodore Sheldon of New York, formerly of Bellevue pl., and of the late David R. Lewis, a Chicagoan for many years, and nieces of Edward Sheldon, playwright.

On the Calendar

The young women who have been assisting Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Curtis entertain at home in Winnetka on Friday nights for officers stationed at Glenview have been invited to a party the Curtises will give Monday in the Saddle and Cycle club for 84 cadets of the Coast Guard academy at New London, Conn., who will arrive in Chicago that day on the first fresh water training cruise in the history of the academy. The few cadets assigned to watches aboard ship will regard their fellow students with envy as the young men leave for the club and a happy evening with pretty young partners.

According to the time proven Curtis formula for entertaining men in uniform, a buffet supper will be served continuously from 8:30 p. m. to midnight. The Coast Guard Amphibians dance band from Cleveland will provide music for the party, and downtown night clubs have promised entertainment. Ranking coast guard officers present will include Commodore James A. Hirschfield, commanding all coast guard personnel in the Great Lakes area.

The North Avenue Day Nursery board's "Arty Party" at 5:30 p. m. today in the Wedgwood room of Marshall Field & Co. will provide a chance for reunions with several board members who have been living away from Chicago—among them Mrs. Charles F. Morse Jr., who has come from St. Joseph, Mich., to reopen her Lake Forest home; Mrs. Jere Patterson, here from Appleton, Wis., and Mrs. Gordon Loud, here on a visit from Washington, D. C. The party of friends which Mrs. Donald A. K. Brown will bring from Lake Forest will go on to dinner later in the Blackstone hotel, and the Ross Byrons and some friends will dine in the Key club.

Before the showing of fall millinery starts, Artists Norman MacLeish and Karl Priebe will stroll among the guests and select the most feminine, the most chic, and the most dramatic hats at the party, whose wearers will receive certificates to have photographs taken. Also included in the price of admission will be sketches of the guests made by a strolling artist.

Here and There

The first of the parties on the late summer and early fall debut calendar is an informal luncheon which Mr. and Mrs. Edward William Hughes will give at 1 p. m. today in the Indian Hill club for their daughter, Miss Eloise Macpherson Hughes. Miss Hughes' roommate at William and Mary college, Miss Wilma Spewack, is here for the party. The debutante, who will wear a simple yellow crepe dress and a single purple orchid, will be attended by two former classmates at the Roycemore school, Miss Joan Burgess and Miss Louise Grulee.

The news of Japan's surrender caused special rejoicing at the Mont Gabriel lodge, Piedmont, Que., as the well known Chinese author, Dr. Lin Yutang, and his family were there. They had been spending a month at the resort. To one of the lodge's owners, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr., the news meant that her husband would be coming home soon from China. Mrs. Dewey's mother, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, is expected at Mont Gabriel next week. Mrs. Pauling Donnelley has a house for the summer not far from the

Thru the Looking Glass

In some ways we gals are a funny lot—we'll yearn for a lovely complexion, spend money for creams and lotions destined to foster a clear, soft skin, and yet we'll blithely dismiss the rudiments of basic skin care as too much effort.

We'll skip the thoro daily cleansings that are so important, tumble into bed at night without bothering to remove makeup, and persist in slapping powder over a shiny face that has enough grime on it to give blackheads and blemishes a good start. It doesn't make much sense, but it's the easy-going way many of us choose to follow. Then we sit back and wonder why we aren't blessed with the flawless complexion we envy that fastidious friend of ours.

If you want to have a pretty complexion you have to work for it—not just in a frenzied two or three days of scrubbing and creaming inspired by a close inspection in the mirror which reveals such dinginess you're shamed into it. That might help a little, but for lasting results the skin must be given regular daily care which can be worked down to a system that won't take much more than 10 minutes. But those 10 minutes must be set aside day in and day out.

A good basic routine for the average woman includes cleansing with cream to loosen and remove makeup and dirt, followed by a thoro washing with mild soap and warm water. Softening with a lubricating cream follows, and a thin film should be left on overnight if the skin is inclined to dryness. It isn't a difficult program, but each step must be thoro and the whole business done daily. Day time care follows the same basic rule of cleanliness, with old makeup removed before new is applied.

Regular skin care isn't something that can be bought in a jar or bottle. It's something that's left to the individual's initiative, but it contains more complexion magic than all the expensive preparations you can pack on a shelf.

Gay Silk Scarf Is a Novel Idea for New Blouse

BY REA SEEGER

Huge squares of precious silk, imprinted with lovely colors and unusual designs, are the special delight of women who know the magic of arranging and tying a scarf to make it double for a very decorative blouse. There are at least a half dozen ways to wrap, tie, and arrange these scarves. The girls who sell them know a few tying tricks of their own devising. Thus the price, which is not modest, more than justifies the expenditure. A famous artist has planned most of the designs. The silk is soft and thin as tissue, altho there are a few of heavier quality.

A most unusual one is the Dutch tile scene. It shows the quaint Dutch architecture, soldiers in uniforms, and burghers in old fashioned dresses. Deep blue on a light blue, black on gold, blue on light magenta, and black on white are some of the effective color schemes in these tile print scarfs.

Another eye catching scarf is an all-white one, imprinted with authentic figures in American regimentals, the old fashioned uniforms brave with buff, scarlet, and gold, high shakos, swords, and boots. These would make effective wall hangings, too, a good birthday remembrance for some man with a trophy room.

A very feminine scarf is the one with prints of old time millinery. Most of the millinery designs were taken from store and shop ads of old newspapers dating back to 1927. If you have a faint suspicion that this year's hats are somewhat on the goofy side, see these historic shockers for proof that millinery has improved immeasurably since the days illustrated on these interesting and very colorful all silk scarves.

The price is not little, but the lush colors, the size, and the distinctive charm of such hand printed beauties rate the money asked for such sartorial blouse splendor.

So women bosses are foolproof against female shenanigans! Pardon me while I grin. Ours is tops in brains, but believe me, sister, she still is a woman. Ever hear of feminine vanity? Lingerie—Fifth Floor, South, Wabash

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 23—Tom Breneman has everything in his picture, "Breakfast in Hollywood." He's got his own mother, Gary Cooper's mother, Joan Crawford's mother, and, heaven help you, he's even got me! Nat Finston is our musical director. He made history in Chicago in the '20s when he introduced grand opera and its singers in movie theaters. His face is as familiar to many opera stars as Mickey Mouse is to Walt Disney. . . . Back from the mountains to the old grind. Even the birds in the trees laughed at Bing Crosby's satire on radio commentators—including me—Monday night. Now that he's bought "Abie's Irish Rose" he could play any part in the piece, but again he'll be producer only and give two unknowns the chance of a lifetime in the leading roles. No wonder Bing's first in the hearts of his fans.

A Royal Gesture of the Theater

When Ethel Barrymore rose and tossed an apple over the footlights to her niece, Diana Barrymore, at the opening of "Rebecca," Hollywoodites not acquainted with the traditions of the royal family wondered why she was tossing a tomato at her kin. . . . Judy Garland and her bridegroom, Vincente Minnelli, are back in town. Even for a honeymoon, Manhattan was too torrid. . . . What are Brian Aherne and that Bel Air society gal discussing these nights? . . . It looks as if Loren Tindall and Diana Lynn are getting serious about it—they've been shopping for hilltop lots. . . . David Hempstead is quite ill with a nervous breakdown.

It Was No Dream, Soldier

Rita Hayworth, just back from a tour of army hospitals, said she talked with an average of 600 boys a day in Washington state and Idaho. "I stopped at the bedside of one lad who was just out of the operating room, his head still full of ether fumes," Rita related. "He opened his eyes, gasped, 'Gee, Rita Hayworth!' and slumped back into unconsciousness. When he opened his eyes again the nurse said, 'You won't remember this, but it's really Rita Hayworth.' The kid gave a wolf call, muttered, 'I may forget a lot, but I'll remember Rita Hayworth,' and was out again like a light." . . . Jinx Falkenburg tells me her mother has gone to New York City to get backing for her plan to bring makers of Mexican fabrics into this country. Mamma also has another bee in her bonnet—she's out to get a newspaper assignment. She wants to cover the coming presidential election in Mexico.

A Hat Wears a Lighthouse

Every day comes word of more deals between David O. Selznick and R. K. O. The latest word is that the former cowboy star, Pvt. Robert Mitchum, who is back in town after a personal appearance tour with "Story of GI Joe," will make two pictures a year for Selznick. Mitchum played the captain in the Ernie Pyle movie and gave audiences and the press a terrific pitch on the valor of the slogging infantry. . . . Lester Cowan's deal to make a followup called "GI Joe Comes Home" is still under consideration. Cowan's just home after four months in New York City. . . . They've done it to Carmen Miranda in "Doll Face." Her headgear, which has included everything from wooden chopping bowls with green salads to a bunch of bananas, now becomes a lighthouse weighing 15 pounds. The light revolves and blinks, and so does Carmen, who can't stand the gaff for more than 10 minutes at a stretch. . . . And it takes two haircuts a week to keep Cornel Wilde from looking woolly in "Leave Her to Heaven." . . . Metro had planned a lot of retakes for the scene in which Greer Garson had to sling a hat at Clark Gable and hit him square in the eye. Greer clicked the first time.

Prize Souvenir Collector in Berlin

Funniest sight of the week: Edgar Bergen, bone dry, with a rope tied about his waist was fastened to girl friend Frances Westerman, who was flopping in the water. "Overhand stroke," muttered Frances as she came up for air. "You may get the overhand," cracked the friend, "but Edgar's going to get the sunstroke!" . . . Gale Robbins writes from Berlin she's become the prize souvenir collector of the Bob Hope unit. Boys call her "the loot girl." It seems she snatched a storm trooper's dagger for Bob and a nazi general's sword for Jerry Colona. . . . Those "Queens for a Day" are cropping up everywhere. One cut into a newscast lately—her suppressed desire was to air hot items on a big news period. Now Queen Sheila Jameson gave out with a "royal command" and got herself a test for a role in "The Robe."

Racing Notes

The running of the American derby tomorrow at the Washington Park race track evokes memories of long ago racing days. The derby was the featured race when the track opened in 1884, and has been a favorite event over the years. A noticeable difference between racing then and now at Washington Park is in the role women are playing in the race world now that some have entered the fields of training, handicapping, and managing stables.

Mrs. John D. Hertz and Mrs. Ethel Mars were among the first Chicago women to achieve renown thru their stables. Mrs. Warren Wright's and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody's racing interests merge with their husbands. Mrs. Daniel Rice of Wheaton is a newcomer to the racing field, but already her stable is arousing interest. Mrs. Emil Denemark's canary and blue silks and Mrs. Al Sabath's pink and blue racing colors are familiar to Chicago race goers.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

(The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Irving Kelly, 2101 Lunt av.)

THE QUESTION

If you were given the opportunity, what changes would you make in the average motion picture presentation?

WHERE ASKED

Palmolive building, 919 N. Michigan av.

Charles Schubert, accountant, 1405 Wilder av., Evanston—I don't care for the average motion pictures because they're not realistic. I don't get anything out of them and think they're a waste of time. Fewer pictures should be made and more time should be devoted to worthy ones rather than throwing scenes together.

Thomas Steinbach, industrial designer, 2024 Berwyn av.—Pictures could be deglamorized considerably. They also should be put on more of an intellectual plane—interesting and at the same time educational. Hollywood has a pattern it has followed for years and I think it's time to change to more inspiration and education.

Ruth Carson, accountant, 1709 Crilly ct.—I think pictures should be made that adults would enjoy. I get terribly tired of the poor little girl who meets a rich man and everything turns out just right. Stories should deal more with the problems of the middle class in this country. There are lots of us, you know.

Elvira Wenstrom, secretary, 7200 Oak av., River Forest—Every time I read a book and then see the movie I'm disappointed. When I see the movie and then read the book I don't enjoy the book. Hollywood should stop using books and plays and get original stories for the screen. That would avoid disappointments.

Theresa Scott, office worker, 6552 Loomis st.—Often a picture takes too much time. It shouldn't be dragged out unnecessarily. If there isn't enough in the script to make it worth while, then it shouldn't be used at all. Now that the war is over and a lot of talent will be returning, I hope pictures will improve.

Robert Sullivan, market researcher, 30 W. Chicago av.—I would suggest producers make more pictures with good music so that the masses could learn to appreciate it. Hollywood shouldn't use the same stars in so many pictures—the leading actors become so familiar it detracts from their skill at portraying parts.

'Pillow to Post' Is Light, Giddy Movie Comedy

"PILLOW TO POST"

Produced by Warner Brothers, directed by Vincent Sherman, featuring Ida Lupino, Sydney Greenstreet, William Prince, Stuart Erwin, Johnny Mitchell, Ruth Donnelly, Barbara Brown, Frank Orth, Regina Wallace, Willie Best, Paul Harvey, Carol Hughes, Bobby Blake, Ann O'Neil, and Marie Blake. Presented at the Apollo.

By Mae Tinee

Don't look now, but here's that "marriage in name only" plot again. This time it concerns a pretty traveling saleswoman who is unable to get living accommodations in a town near a military post because she isn't an army wife. She persuades a lieutenant to register at a motel with her. The lieutenant intends to leave immediately afterward but runs into his domineering commanding officer [Sydney Greenstreet] and is trapped into pretending he's married.

There also is the dim witted man of all work who helps confuse things, as well as the gossipy group of army wives who keep a sharp eye on the supposed honeymooners, the frantic expectant father, and a lot of other standard gags. But because the young people who play the leads are both likable and capable and are supported by an excellent cast, it all manages to be quite entertaining, except for occasional spots when things become pretty far fetched.

Ida Lupino is very attractive, and William Prince does well in his portrayal of the bedeviled young lieutenant. If you're looking for something light and giddy, "Pillow to Post" should fill the bill nicely.

Spanish Flavor

"THE GAY SENORITA"

Produced by Columbia, directed by Arthur Dreifuss, featuring Jinx Falkenburg, Jim Bannon, Steve Cochran, Corinna Mura, Isabelita, Thurston Hall, Isabel Withers, Marguerita Sylva, Luisita Triana, Lola Montes, Tommy Cook, Nina Bara, Leander de Cordova, Eddy Fields, and Antonia Triana. Presented at the Oriental.

If you're one of the hundreds practicing "yo hablo Espanol" here's a good opportunity to test your knowledge. This film is chockful of Spanish songs; there's only one outstanding lyric in English, and it might be just as well if you didn't understand that one!

In addition to all the music and dancing, which is excellent, if a bit too prevalent, there is a plot, but it's pretty weak in the knees. It concerns the residents of Sandoval Lane, where the people, altho in the United States, are preserving Mexican traditions by wearing native costumes and entertaining one another all day and every day, apparently.

The street is beneficiently ruled by Dona Maria Sandoval and her granddaughter [Jinx Falkenburg]. They plan to restore the property and keep the Mexican flavor, but a big, bad business man wants to build a warehouse on the spot. He sets his nephew to the task of winning over the influential family by courting the daughter. Said nephew assumes an alias and from that point on it's all quite confusing. How or why a lot of things happened I couldn't understand, but just when the young people think they have the wicked construction man believing he's crazy and had better mend his ways—it develops he knew he wasn't really nuts and is a sweet old thing at heart.

Both the plot and the dialog are pretty lame, and the members of the cast couldn't do much with it even if they were awfully good—which is not the case.

Grant and Hitchcock Plan to Film 'Hamlet' in a Modern Version

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 23 (AP)—Cary Grant and Alfred Hitchcock announced joint plants today to film a modern version of Shakespeare's "Hamlet." "Cary Grant as Alfred Hitchcock's Hamlet — a modern thriller" will be the billing on this tradition breaking project, said Hitchcock, British director noted for his thriller pictures. The production will go before the cameras after Jan. 1. Work already has been started on transcribing Shakespeare's tragedy into modern terms for the script.

School Child Needs Proper Food and Rest

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

To follow along in this series of talks on helping the school child, since there are so many angles for mothers to watch if they want everything to go as well and as smoothly as possible, I want to dwell today on the subject of food and rest—and exercise.

First, I want to say that these two, food and rest, tie up more than most of us realize. Ordinarily, the tired child doesn't eat or digest his food well, just as the undernourished child is not apt to rest or sleep well. Or, to put it in just the opposite way, the child who is thoroly rested has more appetite and better digestion, and the child who is well-nourished tends to sleep better and longer. So you can see how important both these matters are in connection with your child's health being "tops" and in connection with his work at school.

Let's take food first. In spite of the fact that books, magazines, and newspapers pound away at the subject of right food for children, a great many whose parents are quite able to give it to them, are not getting a balanced diet. This is vital for mind as well as body.

The next point is this: Since starting school your children may not eat as well at breakfast or lunch as they formerly did. They are too hurried, you say. Well, you must change all that.

For one thing, a good breakfast is needed after a fast [during sleep] of at least 12 or 14 hours, to carry them thru the morning. You must manage so that they get it, and you can. To do so, first calm yourself and the morning household; the children will take the cue from you, so just don't let it get hectic and hurried. You may have to get up a little earlier, and you will almost surely have to get the children up a little earlier, too, so that they can dress and eat their breakfast without hurry and clock-watching; or if they're not old enough to tell the time, without the nervous fear of being late for school.

Lunch also must not be eaten in a worried rush. If things have to be figured closely, then plan the kind of food that doesn't take long to eat, such as strong nourishing soups and stews for instance.

If rest is being skimped during school days, try an earlier bath, an earlier supper, and an earlier bed hour. Or try the afternoon rest instead.

Remember in this connection that the overtired child does not sleep well at night, so this relaxation may be just what your school child needs. Rest, food, and plenty of outdoors are prime requisites for a child of any age, provided they are properly supervised as to quality and quantity.

FASHIONS

By Angela

An essential item of the collegian's dormitory life is a long, warm robe. The styling of these garments is as smooth as their materials, and the colors are as varied as the types of material.

The tailored navy blue flannel robe at the left is beautifully cut and finished to perfection. White piping around the collar, cuffs, pocket, and front is smart contrast. There are four pearl buttons above and below a wide belt which fastens with a material covered buckle. It is available in sizes 10 to 18.

For the more feminine type, the shrimp pink 100 per cent wool robe in the center has scallops around the shawl collar, down the front, and on the sleeves. A belt which ties in a large bow starts at each side above deep slash pockets. The smooth panel back creates a flattering princess line. It also is available in aqua, light blue, orchid, and navy.

The most vivid in this robe trio is the shrimp pink plaid model at the right, with its high lapels, tailored collar, and buckle belt. Four pearl buttons trim the front. The plaid is formed by pin stripes of brown and white. It is priced under $17.

Family of Seven Asks Clothing for Children

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[Sally Joy Brown department activities are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.].

Several urgent requests for clothing have come to our desk lately, and we hope no one will permit apparel to be discarded or to deteriorate by storage before first consulting this department as to placement with less fortunate families.

The D. family, consisting of parents, three boys, 9, 7, and 6, and two girls, 11 and 4, lives on a farm northwest of Chicago, where the father works by the month as a hired hand, earning a small wage, which precludes the possibility of clothing purchases or such household needs as curtains. In addition to the anxiety the mother feels because of the lack of adequate apparel for the children to wear to school, she is deeply concerned about her inability to prepare for the baby which is expected in November. Baby clothing, and children's wearables in the above sizes, will greatly relieve this harassed mother.

Can any one provide a pair of shoes, size 9B or 9C for Mr. X., who recently passed his 90th birthday? An agency supplies his meager living needs, but expenditures for shoes do not come within the limits of his budget, and he has turned to this department for aid. In spite of his failing health, which recently required the care of a physician, he takes an active interest in the world about him and looks forward to resuming walks in a park soon.

Mrs. N., an elderly grandmother who lives west of the loop, is trying to spread her small income to supply her own few wants and to support her grandson, 5 years old. The child, who is quite small for her age, will enter school this fall and will be without warm clothing unless some generous person will help meet that need.

Goren on Bridge

By Charles H. Goren

[Copyright: 1945: By Charles H. Goren]

Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

	NORTH ♠ 10982 ♥ 6 ♦ AQJ3 ♣ AKQ6
WEST ♠ 5 ♥ KQJ987532 ♦ K4 ♣ 9		EAST ♠ 7643 ♥ 10 ♦ 10962 ♣ J742
	SOUTH ♠ AKQJ ♥ A4 ♦ 875 ♣ 10853

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	4 hearts	6 spades	Pass
7 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of hearts.

It is concededly difficult to display any personality when the opponents have reached a game or slam contract and you are gazing at an assortment of cards that are better adapted to the game of gin rummy than to contract bridge. Nevertheless, on those occasions you should maintain a stiff upper lip, for several reasons. In the first place, your boredom or irritation may give away the show and enable declarer to place the missing strength in the hand of your partner. Secondly, you never can tell when some lowly and despised card like a nine or a ten may prove a stumbling block to the declarer. Then again, tho your hand may be trickless, proper discarding by you may be very helpful to partner in determining what cards to hold.

The East of today's hand never suspected when he picked up his cards that he was to be the leading man of the very exciting drama upon which the curtain was being raised. West's preëmptive bid of four hearts prevented any scientific investigation of the hand and North's slam bid was a good gamble. South, feeling that he had considerably more than he might have held, went on to a grand slam, a venture, which I for one, am not inclined to recommend.

The king of hearts was opened and taken by the ace. The low heart was ruffed in dummy with the 10 of spades and East had to make a discard. The appearance of the dummy made a club discard out of the question, so that the temptation was to let go the deuce of diamonds. East realized, however, that holding of four diamonds might be important if partner held the king [if declarer held the king there appeared to be no hope]. He therefore discarded a trump. Note that a diamond discard would have permitted declarer to cash four tricks in the suit after the successful finesse, and the losing club could be shed on the three of diamonds.

Declarer entered his hand with a trump and took the diamond finesse; he then drew the trumps and repeated the finesse, but when diamonds and clubs both failed to break, he had to give up a club trick at the end.

Despite East's brilliance, declarer should have made the hand. West is known to have nine hearts and one spade. The clubs and diamonds cannot therefore break. This is corroborated, tho no corroboration is necessary, by East's discard of a trump. After ruffing the heart, declarer should return to his hand with a spade and take the diamond finesse, another trump lead permits him to repeat the diamond finesse and the king shows up out of West's hand. At this point the three top clubs should be cashed and the remaining trumps led out.

Dummy discards the six of clubs and is reduced to the ace and three of diamonds. Declarer has a diamond and a club. East who holds the 10 and nine of diamonds and the jack of clubs must make a discard, which he is unable to do without committing hara-kiri.

The usual Saturday quiz will appear tomorrow.

'This Nettle Danger'

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright: 1945: By William MacLeod Raine)

SYNOPSIS: In the feud between homesteaders and cattlemen, Bruce Sherrill, leader of the homesteaders, is wounded. Bruce shot Ben Randall, son of old Jeff Randall, owner of the Diamond Tail ranch. Trapped, he rides to the ranch of Cliff Applegate. Linda Applegate hides him because he is wounded and insists he be given shelter until he is able to travel. Linda quarrels with Bruce when he accuses the cattlemen of trampling down the homesteaders, and in the night he slips away. Linda and her father tell Jeff Randall what they have done, and Cliff and Jeff quarrel bitterly. Bruce suspects Flack is a spy for the cattlemen. A former Rough Rider, Bruce visits Washington and obtains the President's promise to investigate the feud. Ben Randall quarrels with his father and visits the Applegates. He soon suspects Linda has more than a humane interest in Bruce. Two government men arrive. While Bruce is rounding up his cattle a shot misses him. In self defense he shoots Wally Jelks. Rod Randall joins them and assures Bruce he will advise the government men, now guests at the Randall ranch, of the shooting, giving his own version. He admits to Linda and Ben that Jelks got what he deserved, but his fight is with Bruce. Linda says Rod for his unfairness, and he realizes Linda is too independent to be his wife. Jeff Randall conspires with Cairns for the frame-up raid on the Pitchfork. Cairns is to slash wires, shoot a few cattle, and plant some evidence against Bruce. The raid is staged. Bruce's hat is found. Bruce persuades the sheriff that Cairns could have planned the raid to prejudice the government men against the homesteaders. Jeff fears Flack may weaken under pressure and tell the truth and pays Quint Milroy to do away with him. Sheriff Humphreys finds Flack's body in his cabin, also his diary showing he was paid by Jeff Randall for spying and for stealing Bruce's hat. Bruce has sized up the situation correctly. The prosecuting attorney shows him Flack's diary. The government orders all fences inclosing government land taken down. Daly fires Cairns and Jeff Randall hires him. Rod remonstrates with his father but unsuccessfully.

INSTALMENT XXIX

JUST DESERTS

All talk in this cattle country now came shortly to the one absorbing topic, the order of the government to tear down fences illegally built.

"I hear Uncle Jeff is standing pat," Brand said.

"Yes, he's bent on getting into a federal prison. No arguing him out of it." Rod smiled, ruefully. "I don't know whether he thinks he's too big a man for the law to make an example of, or whether he is just so bullheaded he is going to ramstam it thru. He has got the idea that all the rest of us are quitters. Since I told him what I thought he doesn't talk with me about it any more. He and that scoundrel Bill Cairns sit with their heads together cooking up trouble."

"What kind of trouble?" Linda asked.

"He did not tell me what kind."

Her heart sank. "It's too bad he has taken in Cairns," she said. "Folks think the fellow killed that man Flack."

He lifted his shoulders in a shrug. "Does it matter who killed Flack? He was selling his friends down the river."

"Whoever did it is a murderer. That matters, doesn't it?"

Rod agreed. "Yes. That was no way to kill a man. But since Flack was what he was I'm not going to get into a sweat about who rubbed him out. He's better dead."

She and her brother picked up the cattle again and pushed them down to their own range. The day was hot and the air filled with the dust stirred up by the moving cattle.

After a long silence, she said, "I'm glad Rod stood up to Uncle Jeff."

"Rod is all right." Brand added an explanation. "Uncle Jeff is like an old bull who has been boss of the herd a long time. He starts snorting and pawing up the ground when competition shows up, and nothing will convince the oldtimer he isn't still tops but a whale of a licking."

Linda swung from the saddle and handed the reins to Brand. "I'm so hot and dirty I'm going down to the swimming hole," she said.

She went into the house and got a towel and soap, after which she found fresh underwear, dress and shoes. These she carried with her. The swimming hole was about 300 yards from the house. Before undressing she ran up a white flag to the top of a pole her father had put there. When the flag was flying all the men on the ranch knew that Linda was using the pool and gave it a wide berth.

She dived from a big flat rock into the cool water and swam leisurely across to the opposite side of the creek.

The sound of a broken twig startled her. Bill Cairns was stepping on to the big rock from which she had dived.

His tobacco-stained teeth showed in a wide lewd grin. "In case you don't know I'm Bill Cairns, the fellow you have never thought about," he said.

She had heard the man had been drinking hard ever since his disgrace.

"You had better go away quickly," Linda said. She was in the water up to her throat.

"Why, I've just come, my dear," he jeered. "Rode a long way, and got a nice eyeful. Remember last time I was here. Lookin' for that wolf Sherrill, and you having him hid all the time."

"Go, you fool!" she ordered. "You know what my father or my brothers will do if they come."

"But they're not coming," he exulted. "We're here alone, you and the man who isn't good enough for you to spit on."

"If you don't go I'll call for help," she warned.

"I wouldn't do that," he mocked. "I'm toting a gun, and they'll come running without any—if they hear you at all."

"Don't you know you'll be hunted down like a coyote and shot on sight if you don't stop bothering me?"

"Now, let's talk that over. I haven't lifted a finger to you. I'm just sittin' on a rock by a creek, enjoyin' the beauties of nature." He broke off, struck by the change in her. She was looking past him.

"Don't kill him," Linda cried.

Her brother's eyes were hard and ice cold. "I'll teach him to play his dirty tricks on you," he said. "Get up, you rat, and keep your hands away from that gun."

"He's drunk, Brand," the girl urged. "Remember that. Don't shoot him."

Brand stepped forward, drew the man's revolver from his holster and flung it into the creek. "I won't kill him this time," he promised. "I'm going to hammer him with my fists till he can't stand. Get going, fellow. You haven't a thimbleful of brains or you wouldn't have left your horse where I could run onto it."

Cairns was frightened. "I wasn't aimin' to hurt her any, Brand," he wheedled.

The .45 prodded into his back. "Don't talk!" Brand said. "Get moving."

As soon as the men had gone Linda swam back to the rock and dressed hurriedly. Cairns was a big muscular fellow, 20 pounds heavier that her brother. He might beat Brand badly and shoot him with his own gun. She ran toward the house.

While she was still a hundred yards away she caught sight of the fighting men. They were not standing toe to toe, slugging it out. Brand was too wise for that. He was a good boxer, and he was making the most of it. Tho not as strong as his foe, young Applegate was hard as nails. Hard punishing blows sank into the bully's belly and made him grunt. Cairns was breathing fast, his wind already gone. His flailing fists went wild.

Linda had to pass near them to get into the house. Cairns broke away from the fight, to get Brand's revolver lying on the porch. The girl beat him to it and whipped the gun from the floor as she ran.

The big man turned, to meet Brand crowding close.

"I've had enough," he bawled. "I give up."

The younger man's fist struck his nose and set blood trickling. "I havn't started yet," Brand told him.

Cairns covered up to protect his face. His knees bent, and he sank to the ground.

"Get up," Brand snarled.

Nothing less than an earthquake would have brought the beaten man to his feet.

Linda caught her brother's wrist. "No more, Brand—please."

"All right. Get up and light outa here. Don't ever show your face on this ranch again."

GRAB DOUGLAS AIRPORT, REGAN ADVISES CITY

Air Commission's Chief Inspects Site

BY ROBERT HOWARD

Douglas airport, whose thick concrete runways can accommodate the heaviest airplanes and whose factory buildings might be convertible into air line terminals, should be acquired immediately by the city, Chairman Ben Regan of the state aeronautics commission said yesterday.

Facilities of the big field outside Park Ridge, where the Douglas Aircraft company is closing down the manufacture of C-54 Skymaster planes, were found satisfactory when Regan made an unofficial inspection tour with John A. Casey, manager of Chicago airport. Mayor Kelly appointed a board of 15 this week to decide whether the city should move its airport to the Douglas site.

Regan Urges Quick Action

The army has canceled its Skymaster contract and the Douglas company expects to have its last plane manufactured and tested by Sept. 15. The company then will have no further reason for occupancy of the field and manufacturing plant, which are air force property.

"Chicago should get title to the field tomorrow, before it gets wound up in red tape," Regan said. "It is an ideal airport and if the city doesn't use it, who will?"

Regan said he believed that Chicago eventually must have several airports. Casey said his only question was whether the large Douglas site acreage available for expansion would be big enough for the landing strips, storage facilities, and administrative buildings needed if Chicago makes its predicted growth as an aviation center.

Largest Terminal in World

With some remodeling, the half-mile long factory building in which the giant four motor planes have been built might be used as a terminal, the largest in the world, for the transcontinental and transoceanic air lines, it was said. The big plant was built partly of wood, but engineers agreed that it is of enduring construction.

The Douglas administration building, a permanent brick, steel, and concrete structure, 600 by 200 feet, was completed last November after its predecessor had been destroyed in a $1,500,000 fire. This building and individual hangars could be taken over by air lines.

Long Runways Already Built

Douglas field has four concrete runways, permitting take-offs and landings in eight directions. Their uncracked surface is evidence of excellent drainage. For commercial use, parallel strips would be needed to duplicate Chicago airport's capacity. The present runways are 5,500 and 5,700 feet long and have handled the huge B-29s easily.

The Douglas property covers 1,423 acres, with 1,038 devoted to the landing field. Additional space is available for expansion southward and westward. Approaches are excellent, with only farm houses and groves of trees in the distance. Atmospheric conditions and visibility are good.

Construction of a northwest super-highway would make it possible to drive from the central business district to the airport in about 27 minutes, highway officials say.

WARD DEALS OUT STIFF TERMS TO 2 2D OFFENDERS

Chief Justice Harold Ward of Criminal court yesterday carried forward his announced policy of dealing summarily with probationers who get into new trouble. Two who appeared before him got heavy sentences.

William J. Murphy, 19, of 2700 Lowe av., whom the judge placed on probation for auto theft in July, was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell and fined $200 to be worked out at $1.50 a day as a result of his arrest for theft of a truck in Rochelle, Ogle county.

Herman Saughter, 21, of 533 E. 38th st., got 2 to 4 years for the burglary of a building at 36th st., and Cottage Grove av., last February. The probation given him in May was canceled after Judge Ward was informed he had been sentenced to 10 days in Municipal court for possession of marihuana.

John Quinn, 38, of 5806 S. Union av., a medically discharged soldier who was arrested for robbery of a restaurant at 67th st. and Marshfield av., with a machine gun sent from Germany by his brother, was sentenced to six months in prison and three years probation.

ONLY 10 NATIONS O. K. NEW DEAL'S GLOBAL AIR PACT

Expect New Formula to Be Sought

BY FRANK HUGHES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 23—The international air transport agreement drafted in Chicago last fall, embodying the "five freedoms" of the air, has failed in its purpose, in the opinion of most of the delegates and officials of the provisional international civil aviation organization's council here, it was learned today.

For that reason the council probably will try to draft "another formula more acceptable to a greater number of nations," Dr. Edward Warner, vice chairman of the civil aviation board and newly elected council president, said today.

A New Deal Creation

No more than 10 nations have accepted the "five freedoms" agreement, an official summary showed today. They are the United States, Afghanistan, China, El Salvador, Ethiopia, Liberia, the Netherlands, Paraguay, and Turkey, with Costa Rica as possibly the 10th, tho its name is not on the official acceptance list.

"The five freedoms" agreement was a New Deal creation which guarantees complete freedom to fly, pick up, and land passengers and freight in the territory of all nations signing it, and it embodies the United States position for complete and unfettered opportunity for free enterprise in the air.

The British, who saw control of the world's trade routes slipping away from them under these conditions because of America's dominant position in the air, have steadfastly refused to accept them and demanded instead rigid international control of international air routes, rates, and frequencies of flight.

Optional Pact Offered

When the New Dealers were unable to get the British to accept the "five freedoms" after a 17 day deadlock in Chicago, they drafted them into a separate document, offered on an optional basis, counting on the prestige and diplomatic skill of the United States to persuade at least a sizable majority of nations to accept it.

But the fact that eight months has elapsed with only nine or 10 nations, none of which has any important geographical significance as far as United States overseas air operations are considered, having signed, leaves this most vital problem of international civil aviation unsolved.

Frederick Bowhill, United Kingdom delegate, said today that Great Britain intends to "protect the smaller nations" and that the British see a danger to the air operations of smaller nations if the international lines of the larger countries, particularly America, are allowed to run rampant all over the globe.

2 TRANSIT LINES ASKED TO SPEED NORMAL SERVICE

Ald. Young [46th], chairman of the city council committee on local transportation, yesterday asked the Chicago Surface Lines and the Chicago Motor Coach company to prepare to resume service on lines which were withdrawn by government direction shortly after the attack on Pearl Harbor. He acted after being informed by local officials of the office of defense transportation that restrictive orders on local transportation will be canceled within a short time. Young said he was told that the ODT would allow reinstatement of the lines by Oct. 31, a date set to allow preparations for resumption of service.

GANGSTER VOLPE TO REOPEN FIGHT FOR CITIZENSHIP

Attorneys for Anthony [Mops] Volpe, now in New York awaiting deportation to Italy, announced yesterday that they would appear today before Superior Court Judge John J. Lupe to request that an order entered April 3, 1920, by the late Judge Joseph B. David be expunged.

The order canceled Volpe's citizenship a week after it had been granted when immigration authorities requested Judge David to take such action and return Volpe's petition to the pending file. Volpe later appeared before the court and asked that the petition be dismissed.

Immigration officials have announced they will oppose the new move to give Volpe citizenship. Volpe, a former Capone gang member, is being deported as an undesirable alien.

OWNER LOSES WALLET AND $150

William J. O'Daniel of 1503 E. 69th st. told police yesterday that he lost his wallet, containing $150, between 3357 Justine st. and 5200 Lake Park av.

HUSBAND OBEYS MOTHER; WIFE WINS SUPPORT

Mrs. Alice Fremont

Theodore Fremont, 38, of the Lake Shore Athletic club, supervisor and buyer for a mail order firm, yesterday was told by Judge Charles E. Byrne in Superior court to pay his estranged wife, Alice, 34, of 2106 N. Oak Park av., $200 a month temporary maintenance.

Mrs. Fremont, whose separate maintenance bill charges desertion, appeared with her attorneys, Joseph H. and Norman Becker. She testified that while pressing her husband's trousers, she found a letter from his mother, urging Fremont to close out all his wife's charge accounts, and to give her nothing.

Fremont, she added, followed his mother's advice.

Teen-Age Killing Is Held Murder; Trace Suspect

A verdict of murder was returned yesterday at the inquest in the death of Morton Stein, 16, of 4932 N. Kedzie av., who was slain May 10 in a room in the Stevens hotel. Lt. Philip Breitzke of the police homicide detail told the coroner's jury that Donald Jay Cook, 15, of 1031 Bryn Mawr av., who is sought for the slaying, was traced to Dallas, Tex., but eluded police.

WINS PROBATION IN KILLING

Lucius George Ware, 32, Negro, of 873 Kennard st., Waukegan, was placed on probation for five years yesterday by Judge Ralph J. Dady in Circuit court of Lake county in Waukegan. Ware pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter in the killing of James Hill, 38,

225 NEGRO GOBS GET GIFTS HERE EN ROUTE WEST

American Red Cross canteen workers showered ice cream, cookies, candy bars, soft drinks, and cigarets yesterday on 225 Negro sailors stopping briefly at the Dearborn station en route to the west coast. Mrs. Broadus Clarke captained the canteen team.

Most of the sailors trained at Great Lakes and all have been in service about 29 months. About half have seen sea duty. The sailors started their cross-country trip in New Jersey Wednesday.

Chicagoland sailors, disappointed at lack of time to call their folks, included James A. Phillips, 21, of 6133 Ada st.; Cornell Smith, 36, of 2059 Roosevelt rd.; Matthew Holibay, 29, of 6021 Indiana av., and Alonzo McQuarter, 25, of 14417 Paulina st., Harvey.

CUBS DEFEND LEAD AGAINST CARDS TODAY

THEY SHINE ON LUNCHEON PROGRAM AS WELL AS ON THE GRIDIRON

Mrs. Tom Harmon (she's Elyse Knox in the movies) presents ball autographed by All-Star players and coaches to Lyle Storch of merchant marine, winner in drawing. Right is John O'Loughlin, program chairman for Junior Association of Commerce.

Among the guests were John L. Keeshin (left), owner of Chicago club in All-America conference, and James H. Crowley, commissioner.

CHICAGO SPORTS FANS MEET THE ALL-STARS—AND LIKE THEM

Packers to Bar Fans at Drill Today

BY EDWARD PRELL
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 23—If the College All-Star game were to be played tomorrow, instead of a week from tonight, Coach Curly Lambeau confesses he would be almost at a total loss to name the Green Bay Packers' starting lineup.

After today's drills he declared his mind is made up on just two starters and that the other nine positions are open.

"The only definite starters," he said after some deliberation, "are Don Hutson at left end and Larry Craig at blocking back."

This puts such standouts as Capt. Charley Brock and Ted Fritsch in the doubtful class at kick-off time under the Soldiers' field lights, and this is why tomorrow's secret scrimmage will do much toward helping Lambeau make up his mind on his opening combination. To eliminate all spectators, the scrimmage has been set for City stadium, home of the Packers. The gates will be locked after the squad takes the field 9:30 a. m.

McKay Makes Strong Bid

Left half? The No. 1 fellow last season was Irv Comp. He completed 80 of 177 passes in National league competition, 12 for touchdowns. But Comp is being pressed to the hilt by Roy McKay, the Texas cowboy, twice a college All-Star.

Right half? Lou Brock was the main man at this spot in '44. But he has two earnest rivals in Joe Laws and Capt. Herman Rohrig of the air forces.

Full back? Fritsch doubtless will get the call. But it won't be for lack of effort by Don Perkins and Ken Keuper. Ted, along with Comp, led the Packers in pass interceptions last season, each having six.

Bob Flowers Is a Comer

Capt. Brock doubtless will start at center, but the performance of Bob Flowers, the blond Texan, has been outstanding during the two weeks the Packers have been working.

Eight guards are engaging in a free for all. At right guard Buckets Goldenberg has Pete Tinsley, Bill Kuusisto, and Mike Bucchianeri as formidable rivals. Lambeau may have to pick from his hat one of these four for left guard: Glen Sorenson, Charles Tollefson, Ray Monaco, and Bob Cope.

At right tackle are Dr. Paul Berezney, Paul Lipscomb, and Ed Neal, both newcomers, and Forrest McPherson. Lipscomb may be a little ahead in this competition, because Berezney, 1944 regular, arrived only yesterday. Baby Ray rates as the starting left tackle while drawing stubborn opposition from Tiny Croft, the Chicago born behemoth. Harry Jacunski, making the All-Star game his final fling, doubtless will start at right end despite all that Rookie Nolan Lunn and Joel Mason can do about it.

Try Out 35 Plays

During drill this morning the Packers tossed some 35 running and passing plays against various alignments representing the College All-Stars' defense.

Safety men spent considerable time handling punts under game conditions.

Crowd of 1,200 Attends J. A. C. Luncheon

BY WILFRID SMITH

Chicago sports fans and their guests, 300 wounded veterans from Gardiner, Vaughan, and Great Lakes hospitals, gave the All-Star football players and their coaches an uproarious welcome yesterday noon at the Junior Association of Commerce luncheon in the Sherman hotel. More than 1,200 jammed the grand ballroom to see the college men who will meet the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football league, in Soldiers' field Thursday night in the 12th contest sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Ralph Rohweder, president of the association, set the keynote of approbation of the annual pre-season football game in his remarks welcoming the All-Stars and coaches, and the tenor of Chicago's famous hospitality was maintained by John O'Loughlin, toastmaster, in introducing the guests at the speakers' table.

Hutson Speaks for Packers

Arch Ward, sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and director of the All-Star game originated in 1934 as a complement to the annual All-Star baseball game, introduced Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, head coach of the All-Stars, and the assistant coaches, Jim Lookabaugh, Oklahoma A. & M.; Howie Odell, Yale; Jeff Cravath, Southern California, and Ray Eliot, Illinois.

Bierman's remarks, before he introduced the members of his squad, conformed to the pattern expected of football coaches on such occasions. He was far from enthusiastic over chances of victory for his charges, but his pessimism was matched by Don Hutson, famed Packer end, who represented Green Bay. Hutson cautiously admitted that Green Bay will show up for the game altho the Packers are fearful of what may happen.

The All-Star players, led by Billy Andrews of the University of Texas, who is student manager of the squad, also provided vocal entertainment for the audience.

Scrimmage Under Lights

The All-Stars scrimmaged last night in Dyche stadium, their first practice under lights, a circumstance at least partly dictated by yesterday's luncheon. They will hold one drill this afternoon. The battle for starting positions against the Packers promises to rise in intensity for the All-Stars also are preparing for a thoro test tomorrow afternoon against the Bluejackets at the Great Lakes Naval Training center.

While all members of the squad participated in last night's scrimmage, the amount of time devoted to certain back field groups indicated that they will have the burden of the game with the Packers. Tom Harmon, Michigan; Charley Trippi, Georgia; Paul Moss, Tulsa, and Les Horvath, Ohio State, were at the tail back position. Other back field men were Bill Meek of Tennessee, Charles Mitchell of Tulsa, and Bob Long of Tennessee, quarter backs; Don Greenwood of Illinois, Ralph Park of Texas, Ed Shedlosky of Tulsa, and John Strzykalski of Marquette, right half backs; Ernie Bonelli of Pittsburgh, Walter Schlinkman of Texas Tech, and Bob Kennedy of Washington State, full backs.

Germain Will Face Zaharias in Semi-Finals

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Ingredients for a perfect semi-final formula in an amateur golf championship:

Take the medalist, the defending champion, the preceding year's runner-up and the double Open champion of the league. Such are the components for this afternoon's penultimate bouts in the 45th amateur tournament of the Women's Western Golf association at the Knollwood club in Lake Forest.

Beginning at 1:30 o'clock, Louise Suggs of Atlanta, who set an all-time record in last Monday's qualifying round, will tee off against Phyllis Otto of Atlantic, Ia., runner-up for the 1944 title. And guess who starts swinging a half hour later, in what should be one of the finest battles of the Chicago golf season? Just a couple of parties named Dot Germain of Philadelphia, winner of the last two amateurs, and Mrs. Mildred [Babe] Didrikson Zaharias of Los Angeles, who defeated this same Miss Germain for the last two W. W. G. A. Open crowns.

Suggs Beats Sessions, 7 and 6

The elegant foursome was arranged by various doings in yesterday's quarterfinals. Miss Suggs, author of that smashing medal 73, was one under par in a 7 and 6 rout of Sally Session of Muskegon, Mich., 1944 medalist. Miss Otto, the Northwestern university senior, gained the last foursome after an arduous afternoon which saw her put out Eileen Stulb, 22 year old radio script writer from Augusta, Ga., 1 up Miss Germain, in search of the first triple victory in Western Amateur history since Bessie Anthony won in 1901, 1902, and 1903, continued on her tranquil way with a 6 and 5 victory over Mrs. Frank Mayer of Lake Shore.

Miss Row Holds On

Mrs. Zaharias, the versatile Texan who is rated the nation's greatest all-around athlete, is still in the party only because of her ability to meet competitive pressure. Two down to tall Marjorie Row of Anniston, Ala., on the 17th yesterday, the Babe won the next two to square it, then took the 20th and the match.

Bunkers cost Mrs. Zaharias the second and third, she three putted the fourth, then went three down by four putting the fifth. She regained one with a par at the 190 yard seventh, but Miss Row still

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Take Wing, Mrs. Clyde Troutt's veteran campaigner, brought Washington Park grass racing program to a climax yesterday by coming from far back in the pack to win the $15,000 Meadowland handicap in new record time—2:03 2-5—for the mile and a quarter over the turf course.

Jockey Art Fischer brought in Take Wing half a length ahead of Leon and Morrie Sidell's Layout, which previously had won the $10,000 Grassland handicap, Arlington Park's companion piece for the Meadowland. Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Sirde was third, three quarters of a length further back, after weakening under the powerful closing challenges of his rivals. This is the second consecutive year Take Wing has won the Meadowland.

Fischer Does It Again

A half an hour later the same combination of an aged Troutt gelding ridden by Fischer scored again in the $10,000 Epinard handicap, a marathon test of two miles and a quarter in which Cerebus came home a length and a quarter ahead of Ava Delight while Franworth was taking third money.

The Troutt entry of Take Wing and Fergie's Ariel was the favorite in the Meadowland betting, the payoff being $7, $3.80, and $2.60 across the board.

The entry functioned perfectly as a team, Fergie's Ariel going out from the gate to set the early pace under Freddy Smith's clever rating, while Take Wing settled down to run in easy stride with the trailers. Layout was far back also going around the clubhouse turn.

Sirde Makes Move

On the run down the back stretch, Fergie's Ariel, Baying, and Rex led the way. Baying, like Fergie's Ariel, was making a pace suitable for his stablemate, Layout. Going toward the far turn, Sirde moved into contention and on the swing around the last curve he began gaining on Baying, which had taken the lead.

They pounded into the stretch with both Take Wing and Layout still far back in the pack while Sirde was coming alongside Baying. In midstretch Sirde was drawing away from the weary Baying, but now Layout was moving up between horses and Take Wing, going wide to get clear, was closing with a mighty rush. In the last few strides, Take Wing came up on one side of Sirde and Layout on the other. They flashed across the finish line with Take Wing in command.

CAVARRETTA REJOINS LEADERS; BOROWY NAMED TO FACE ST. LOUIS

World Champions Need Three Straight

[The White Sox will open a five game series in St. Louis tonight. Story on next page.]

BY EDWARD BURNS

The big series between the Cubs and the Cardinals will open in Wrigley field at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon and it's one of those crucial series, too, in so far as the Cardinals are concerned.

The Cubs, 5½ games ahead of the Cardinals, who are in second place and haven't been in first place at any time during the summer, could blow all three games of the current series and still would be leading the league by 2½ games. On the other hand, if the Cubs whip the Cards three straight, or even two out of three, the mathematics against St. Louis would be terrific, tho the teams still will have nine games to play with each other after the present series is concluded. As it is, the Cards have lost seven more games than the Cubs.

Cavarretta to Play

Hank Borowy will pitch for the Cubs this afternoon. Regardless of announcements, Manager Charley Grimm was prepared to face either Lefty Harry Brecheen or Ken Burkhardt.

Perhaps a more exciting personnel item is that Capt. Phil Cavarretta will be back at the first base this afternoon after being absent from 11½ games, excepting a pinch running assignment in which he scored the run in a Cubs' 2 to 1 defeat, their only loss in Brooklyn. Phil suffered an injury to his right shoulder in a collision with Fred Daniels in the first game of a double header in Philadelphia a week ago Sunday.

He Says He's Ready

Cavarretta showed up at Wrigley field yesterday for his daily heat treatments by Doc Andy Lotshaw and at noon reported to Manager Grimm he felt better than at any time since his accident on Aug. 12. He told Grimm that he was certain he would be ready today.

Thru his 11 game absence Cavarretta's runs batted average suffered, of course, but he gained on Tommy Holmes in the race for the National league batting championship. Phil will resume play with a batting average of .363. Holmes is leading with .368.

The other of the two 10 year Cubs, Stan Hack, may pass a milestone in his Cub career this afternoon. If Stan makes two hits he will lift his Cub hit total to 2,000.

Skipper Charley said yesterday that he had altered plans for the entire series from the lineups he had contemplated earlier. Charles said he would stand by Ray Prim as his starting pitcher tomorrow and probably would use Paul Derringer Sunday. Paul beat the Cards twice in the first three games between the teams, here on opening day, April 17, and in St. Louis, May 5. Since then, by the way, Claude Passeau has been the only Cub to win from the faded champs. He salvaged the final of four games, in the last series between the teams.

Feller Signs with Indians at Old Wage

Cleveland, O., Aug. 23 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians signed their pitching star, Bob Feller, just out of the navy, to a new contract today, calling for something like $40,000 per year.

Feller is the magnet destined to draw more than 50,000 fans into Cleveland stadium for his post-war debut against the leading Detroit Tigers, tomorrow night. Bob doffed his navy blue yesterday and today donned an Indian uniform for a workout—the same uniform in which he broke major league strikeout records before he went to war in December, 1941.

Cleveland will shower honors upon him tomorrow at a civic luncheon to be attended by Ohio's governor, Cleveland's mayor, and a thousand other fans. Just before he takes the mound against the Tigers, Tris Speaker will present him a jeep to use on his Iowa farm.

EAST CHICAGO ELIMINATED IN LEGION TOURNEY

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—Shelby, N. C., defeated East Chicago, Ind., 7 to 1, tonight to win the southeastern sectional American Legion junior baseball tournament and gain a place in the finals next week in Charlotte, N. C.

The Carolina team defeated the Indiana team, 5 to 1, in an afternoon game, and clinched the meet with tonight's victory.

Boots Kent pitched three hit ball and had a shutout after the first inning tonight while his teammates pounded out 11 hits against two pitchers and took advantage of four errors to win handily.

Tucson, Ariz., Trenton, N. J., and Oak Park, Ill., will compete in the national meet along with Shelby starting Monday.

COURT SUSTAINS CUSTODY APPEAL OF F. McCORMICK

Vacates Writ Giving Two Children to Educator

Middletown, Conn., Aug. 23 (AP)—A superior court decision vacating a probate court decree by which the two adopted children of Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard were adopted by another foster parent cleared the way today for what promised to be a court battle between Mrs. Hubbard and her brother, Fowler McCormick of Chicago.

The children, Edith Rockefeller Hubbard, 12, and Elisha Dyer Hubbard, 8, were given in adoption to Dr. Frances Clarke, Durham and New London educator, on May 12, 1944, three days before the date of a scheduled hearing on a petition filed by McCormick, asking that the children be removed from his sister's custody.

Denies Brother's Charges

He asserted in the petition that she was an "unfit person" who drank to excess and who beat and otherwise mistreated her young charges.

At the time of the adoption by Dr. Clarke, Mrs. Hubbard denied all her brother's accusations but said she was giving up the children to spare them from publicity.

Judge William J. Shea said in today's decision voiding the adoption by Dr. Clarke that the "only plausible explanation" for the "unnecessary haste" with which the adoption was carried out was that speed was required in order to effect the adoption on the last court day before the scheduled hearing on McCormick's petition.

He also upheld McCormick's claim that his sister, now a WAC sergeant "had no power to enter into a contract for the adoption of these children" when they were given to Dr. Clarke.

Resigns as Guardian

Mrs. Hubbard resigned as the children's guardian in March, 1943, in order to comply with WAC regulations concerning dependent minors. Her housekeeper, Mrs. Elvira Parsons, then became their guardian. McCormick's petition, asking that Mrs. Parsons be removed as guardian and that Mrs. Hubbard be deprived of all right of cutody and control, was filed in March, 1944, and Mrs. Parsons resigned her guardianship two weeks later.

Meantime the Probate court named Mrs. Grace Bement of Deerfield, Mass., temporary guardian, and she has had the children since that time.

DDT TO SPRAY CALUMET POLIO AREA DUE TODAY

A quantity of DDT, potent new insectide developed by the army, yesterday was on its way to the Cook county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Mrs. Karl Steen, executive secretary, said. The 50 pound DDT shipment will be turned over to county and health authorities, she said.

DDT was used recently to spray fly breeding areas in Rockford in an effort to stem the sweep of a polio epidemic there. Results of the test have not been determined, but authorities reported a dearth of flies in the treated region.

The DDT, which is expected to arrive today, will be used to dust an area in the vicinity of 101st st. and Yates av., described in a letter from George M. Brott, president of the Calumet-Jeffery Improvement association, as a "fly haven." Six children were stricken with polio in that area in the last 15 days. One of seven new cases reported to the city health department yesterday also was in that area. Three new cases were reported yesterday to county health officials.

GETS WISCONSIN AID IN TRACING BENEFACTRESS

Ex-Soldier Says He'll Give Her Estate

Fort Atkinson, Wis., Aug. 23 [Special]—Mrs. Marie Dyer of Emery Park, Ariz., may be rewarded for kindness to a war veteran several years ago.

Chief of Police Harry Mueller of Fort Atkinson said today that he had received a telegram from Capt. Victor F. Byrne, Los Angeles, asking the whereabouts of Mrs. Dyer, a former resident of Fort Atkinson, because "I am very ill and may not live many months. I wish to leave Marie Dyer my entire estate for her kindness toward me when I was a poor discharged soldier in Chicago. Now I am a very wealthy man."

Sends Thanks for Information

Mueller said that he had wired the information and had received another telegram thanking him, and saying that the sender of the message planned to communicate with Mrs. Dyer soon.

Reached by the Associated Press in Arizona, Mrs. Dyer, wife of an electrician, filled in these details:

The friendship started in Chicago in 1923 when Capt. Byrne, unemployed, met Dyer and lived with the family "quite a while."

"He always acted like one of us," she said.

For several years after he left he kept in touch with the family by mail but when he moved to California the contact was broken.

First News in Years

"This is the first news we have had of him since that time."

The Dyers moved to Arizona in 1941.

In Los Angeles, Byrne waited for a reply to a letter he has already sent to Mrs. Dyer.

Byrne explained that after years of work as a physiotherapist and male nurse he has amassed "quite a lot of money." Many of his patients, he claims, are celebrities and near-celebrities of the film world.

He said his health failed last January and in subsequent treatment he discovered he was a diabetic. Despairing of his health he determined to locate his benefactress and repay her in part for her many kindnesses.

ACT TO TIGHTEN SAFETY STICKER PENALTY LAWS

Council approval of a plan advanced by Edward J. Gorman, public vehicle license commissioner, to toughen disciplinary action against drivers who fail to obtain safety stickers, will be recommended by the city council committee on traffic and public safety, Ald. Kells [28th], head of the committee, said yesterday.

The proposed ordinance entails a change in the type of tickets handed delinquent motorists by police. Under the present system, Gorman said, motorists merely go into traffic court and pay a $2 fine, frequently neglecting to obtain stickers.

Under the new measure they would be unable to pay their fines until stickers have been obtained. Ten days after issuance of the ticket a warrant would be issued for the driver's arrest, subjecting him to a maximum fine of $200.

WAR AGENCIES TO LOSE SYSTEM OF DEFERMENTS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—A system under which 17 government agencies certified key war workers for draft deferment will be terminated Sept. 15, selective service announced tonight.

The plan was put into effect last February to safeguard what government officials described as "a hard core" of workers in essential activities. The 17 agencies covered all phases of war production and war supporting activities.

Under the plan, each of the agencies had authority to certify for continued deferment a percentage of occupationally-deferred workers under age 30.

SUSPECT IN RAPE OF SAILOR'S WIFE IS EXONERATED

Philip Peyrot, 24, of 5541 Pensacola av., arrested Tuesday as a rape case suspect, was exonerated yesterday when disorderly conduct charges against him were dropped in Shakespeare av. court. Judge Michael Tremko ordered police records in the case expunged. Peyrot was arrested on the accusation of a 25 year old mother, wife of a sailor. She later was unable to identify him.

A soldier just back from Europe and a sailor were held by Shakespeare av. police for investigation of charges involving two girls, one 14, the other 15, whom they took to Thatcher woods of the forest preserve early yesterday. Also seized was Louis Gundlach, 28, of 1751 N. Drake av., bartender in a tavern at 3402 North av., who allegedly sold drinks to the girls.

Another rape was reported during the day, the victim a 22 year old Negro woman. She was seized by a Negro, armed with a knife, forced into the rear of 4017 Dearborn st., and attacked. DAUGHTER TELLS OF MRS. BRIDGES AND OTHER MEN

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 23 [Special]—Mrs. Harry Bridges, wife of the west coast CIO leader, was accused by her daughter, Jacqueline, 20, today of drinking "quite a bit," of "tearing off her clothes and going into the street," and of "going around the house naked" and letting strange men "paw her."

Yet the mother told her daughter that "sex itself is an evil thing," the girl testified in support of the divorce her father is seeking. Jacqueline's account of her mother was even more denunciatory than the description Bridges gave of her yesterday at the opening session of the trial.

Under cross-examination Miss Bridges admitted she had told her father she had heard reports that he was the father of a child by Nancy Fenton, New York dancer, but he told her they weren't true. However, she said she found pictures of Nancy in her father's wallet. Mrs. Bridges hasn't yet had a chance to tell her side of the story, contenting herself thus far with derisive grinning at her husband's and daughter's charges.

TRUMAN ORDERS BUREAUS BACK ON 40 HOUR WEEK

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—President Truman ordered all federal departments and agencies today to return to the basic 40-hour week not later than Sept. 9, 1945, unless it would seriously hamper their essential operations.

In a letter to the department heads he said that bureaus finding it necessary to temporarily maintain a work week in excess of 40 hours, should report the reasons to the budget bureau.

The President recently cut the wartime work week from 48 to 44 hours in all departments except war, navy, and treasury.

Mr. Truman today also directed government departments to discontinue work on public holidays. He said departments and agencies should return to their normal policies in granting leaves of absence.

The reduction to a 40 hour week will mean a loss of $2.49 per week for the lowest paid workers, whose annual pay rate is $864. The biggest loss will be suffered by the government worker receiving a base rate of $2,980, whose overtime for working Saturday morning amounted to $8.59.

PRE-WAR PRICE FOR CONSUMER DURABLE GOODS

Big Output Assures Profit, Says OPA

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 [Special]—Nearly all consumer durable goods will return to the civilian market at pre-war prices or little higher, the OPA said today.

In making the announcement—considered one of the most important in the entire reconversion program—the agency specified 1942 ceilings on household washing machines, ironers and aluminum kitchen ware. It was the OPA's first post-war pricing of consumer durable goods.

OPA Chief Bowles said that at pre-war prices for these new goods, manufacturers and every one else down to the retail stores "can look forward to excellent profits based on a high sales volume."

Need Little Selling

"Once consumers hear that washing machines, refrigerators, vacuum cleaners and automobiles are in stock," he commented, "it isn't going to take any high priced sales organization to get these goods into the hands of the public."

The OPA statement on post-war prices lent support to reports that new automobiles due soon may be held at or close to 1942 prices.

"Let me say flatly that during this critical reconversion period the cost of rent and food will remain at present levels and that clothing prices will be firmly held," said Bowles.

Clothing prices have risen nearly 14 percent since May, 1943, and still were climbing in June when the last cost of living survey was made.

Predicts $1.09 Shirt Again

In New York M. J. Lovell, executive head of the National Association of Shirt and Pajama Manufacturers, predicted return of that old standby, the $1.09 shirt in addressing a meeting of the Association of Buying Officers. He said an increase in output of men's shirts and pajamas would reach the stores by October.

Two important factors were being discussed in the building field. One was whether there should be price ceilings on post-war homes. The other is the contention of government housing experts that the greatest need is a home for the man who can afford rent outlays of only $20 to $40 a month.

The OPA favors price ceilings, to prevent high prices on the first new homes. Hugh Potter, the new construction coördinator, opposes ceilings, asserting that a flood of new home building would quash any inflation. The controversy may be taken to President Truman.

Plan for NHA Projects

Attention was focused on the $20 to $40 home owner class by John B. Blandford Jr., national housing agency administrator, who supervised the war housing program. He believes private enterprise will provide homes for the $40 plus class and the government low rent program will take care of the $20 minus class, leaving a big gap in the market between those groups.

He has proposed a two fold plan to stimulate interest in the construction of dwellings for this middle group. He suggested extension of mortgage insurance to help builders and guaranteed income to large investors in rent projects. The first would be a pledge to the builder, two to three years in advance, concerning the extent to which NHA will insure mortgages on the homes he plans to build.

With these commitments the builder could borrow construction money cheaper, thus reducing costs, and plan operations far ahead.

The second part of his plan would assure large investors a regular income, an insurance plan to guarantee a yield for 30 or 40 years on houses they build to rent.

RFC Releases 252 Plants for Sale to Public

The Reconstruction Finance corporation in Washington yesterday offered 252 war plants for sale to private industry after declaring them surplus. Many are in the Chicago area.

No longer needed to produce tanks, shells, plane engines, chemicals, and radar, the plants, which cost a total of 1½ billion dollars, will be sold, if possible, to private industry at prices probably much lower than their original cost. Most of the machine tools and equipment in them also will be declared surplus by the army.

Ten Largest Cost Half Billion

The 10 largest plants, built at an estimated cost of $593,443,434, include two government owned units of the Ford Motor company's River Rouge plant at Dearborn, Mich.

Most of the government owned plants operated by the army not included on the surplus list will be kept on a standby basis or used for storage. A few will continue limited production of experimental items, the RFC said.

The plants kept on a standby basis will be leased to private industry for civilian production when possible. Also when possible the army will release any of the standby units that private interests may wish to purchase. In such cases, plants now listed as surplus would be retained to replace those that are sold.

RFC DENIES FIVE USED INFLUENCE FOR B. & O. POSTS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—The Reconstruction Finance corporation today denied that former RFC employes had used influence to obtain "advantageous employment" with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. The denial was contained in a letter from RFC Chairman Henderson to Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.], of the senate interstate commerce committee.

Wheeler had asserted in a letter of July 28 to Federal Loan Administrator Snyder that he had been informed that five men who he said had been associated with the RFC had used RFC loans to the B. & O. as a means of obtaining executive positions with the line. He named Roy B. White, president of the B. & O., Stewart McDonald, Russell L. Snodgrass, Cassius M. Clay, and F. E. Baukhages, all B. & O. officials, as those who had benefitted thru the B. & O. loans.

GRAINS UNEVEN, BARLEY GAINS ON CANADIAN CURB

Grain prices closed irregular yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat finished unchanged to ⅜ cent a bushel higher, corn unchanged to ¼ lower, oats ⅛ to ⅜ lower, rye 1⅛ higher to ⅛ lower, and barley 2 to 3⅛ higher. The barley market rose when the Canadian wheat board announced it would issue no export certificates on barley, possibly for the remainder of the season.

Cash interests bought wheat futures early, partly on strength in securities. Selling developed on reports the Commodity Credit corporation was refusing some offerings of spring wheat in the northwest, altho the price was lower.

CONTINUATION OF TOP LEVEL FARM OUTPUT URGED BY ANDERSON

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson tonight called upon farmers to complete 1945 war inspired food production schedules to assure supplies for hungry people abroad as well as Americans.

Despite military cutbacks, there will be plenty of demand here and abroad for American farm output at good prices, he said. Anderson forecast improvement in civilian supplies of meats, fats, and oils, but said it was too early to say when they may be removed from rationing.

He said sugar rationing may be needed for another year.

Price Aid Held Need as Food Demand Falls

The end of the war in the long run will deflate food prices and the government's guaranteed price supports will be needed to protect farmers as the current world demand for supplies from the United States lessens, industry sources predicted yesterday.

As high war wages are replaced by smaller peace time pay, the American family probably will adjust its budget and spend less for food, and revived durable consumer goods will compete with food for the consumer's dollar, they said.

The department of agriculture has warned that food needs will be large for some time. The biggest demand will come from the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration for foreign shipment.

Predict Production Control

Some elements of the food trade believe assurance of price support until Jan. 1, 1948, will cause farmers to maintain peak production even after the need has passed, so that a serious overproduction may ensue. They predicted the department of agriculture may set up some form of marketing agreements to control production.

Federal price support falls into two major categories. The first concerns the basic commodities, corn, wheat, cotton, tobacco, rice, and peanuts for nuts. The other covers the so-called Steagall commodities, hogs, eggs, chickens, turkeys, milk and butterfats, dry peas, dry edible beans, soybeans, peanuts and flaxseed for oil, American Egyptian cotton, potatoes, and cured sweet potatoes. Other commodities for which support programs have been announced include wool, naval stores, American hemp, sugar beets, sugar cane, black eyed peas and beans, certain fruits and vegetables for processing, barley, grain sorghums, rye, sea island cotton, certain vegetable seeds, winter cover crop seeds, and hay and pasture seeds.

Supported by Producer Loans

Basic commodities must be supported by producer loans at 90 per cent of parity, and Steagall commodities must be supported by congressional mandate at not less than 90 per cent of parity or comparable prices. Steagall commodities may be supported by commodity loans, purchase, or other means, at the discretion of the secretary of agriculture.

As for price supporting operations for non-Steagall commodities, congress has ruled that lending and purchase operations shall be certified out to bring price and income of producers into a fair parity relationship with the basic and Steagall commodities to the extent that funds are available.

World Flights from Chicago Await Pacts

The speed of state department negotiations with foreign governments for necessary permission will determine how soon Chicagoans can fly direct to Europe and the orient by way of newly certified routes, a spokesman for Pan American World Airways system said yesterday.

He disclosed that air lines officials were more concerned with the progress of these negotiations—about which they have no information—than with the availability of suitable equipment.

He said reciprocal agreements probably will have to be made with the British, Canadians, French, Dutch, and Swedes, all of whom are ambitious to begin flying the Atlantic as soon as possible. Pacific routes will present similar problems.

C-54s to Fly New Routes

The spokesman said surplus C-54 [Douglas Skymaster] transports are expected to be made available soon by the army air forces. "These will answer the equipment question after they are converted and equipped with pressurized cabins," he said. The C-54s would fly from Chicago to Foynes, Eire, with stops at Detroit, Mich., Montreal, Que., and Botwood, Newfoundland.

As soon as possible Pan American will replace the C-54s with 204-passenger Consolidated Vultee planes having a minimum cruising speed of 310 miles an hour. This model, designated the CV-37, is a six-engine pusher type craft which could fly nonstop from Chicago to London in 10 hours. Preliminary engineering is complete, but construction has not been started.

Chicago Clearance Point

When service is set up Pan American will clear all its New York traffic to the orient thru Chicago, the official said. Passengers and cargo destined to Europe and the middle east from midwest points will be funneled thru Chicago and will not touch cities on the eastern seaboard.

Pan American also hopes for permission to fly domestically from Chicago to New York, Miami, Fla.; New Orleans, La.; Los Angeles and San Francisco, Cal., and Seattle, Wash. The hope is based on a civil aeronautics board ruling July 5 which gave Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., and American Export Airlines, Inc., permission to fly international routes, breaking a long established precedent.

"This would mean a complete rounding out of routes to Chicago and would establish it more firmly as the hub for domestic as well as international routes," the Pan American spokesman said.

PREPARES PLEA TO HALT SHIFT FROM NEWSPRINT

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—A "task force" of newspaper publishers, after a two day session here with newsprint producers, was prepared to recommend today that strong action be taken to halt the switching of American newsprint plants into other lines of production.

The committee, headed by Robert Choate of the Boston Herald and Traveler, will report to the newspaper industry advisory committee at a joint meeting with the WPB officials in Washington on Sept. 11 and 12. The group will continue its investigation until this meeting in an effort to improve the dwindling newsprint supply, it was learned.

Altho the meeting with producers was an executive session, and the committee report will be kept confidential until the conference with WPB next month, it was no secret that the group regarded the newsprint situation as "extremely serious."

Union Pacific Net Income Rises to 4.7 Million in July

July net income of the Union Pacific Railroad system was $4,764,853, compared with $3,353,740 a year earlier, the company reported yesterday. Net income for the first seven months of this year totaled $26,273,820, against $20,808,216 a year ago.

CANADIAN PULP FIRMS PLAN BIG PLANT OUTLAYS

Industry to Spend Over 100 Millions

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 23—The Canadian pulp and paper industry plans a modernization and expansion program which will exceed 100 million dollars and may reach 150 million, a survey indicated today. It includes establishment of two entirely new settlements and the revival of a "ghost" paper town.

A 4½ million dollar expansion was announced this week by the Ontario Paper company and a subsidiary, newsprint manufacturing subsidiaries of the Tribune company, at their Thorold, Ont., and Bafe Comeau properties.

Orders Top 50 Millions

Faced with an increasing demand for their products, plus a formidable replacement program to cover the gaps traceable to war emergencies, pulp and paper companies already have ordered equipment estimated at more than 50 millions. They await only delivery and favorable labor conditions to make the capital expenditures incidental to installation. A few deliveries have been made, but 1946 and 1947 will be the years for the bulk of actual expenditures.

One large program currently underway is that of the Marathon corporation on the north shore of Lake Superior in Ontario. More than 10 millions will be spent to construct a 250 ton bleached sulphite and kraft mill, scheduled to commence operations next year. A new town, named Everest, will be built.

U. S. Firm to Expand

Espanola, Ont., also on Lake Superior, is the "ghost" paper town due for revival. Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment company has embarked on a program on which the lowest estimate is $4,500,000, with the top estimate twice that figure. Much of the construction and equipment will be entirely new, but part of the old Abitibi Power and Paper company plant will be renovated. The plant will have a daily capacity of 225 tons of bleached sulphite and kraft liner, most of the output to be shipped to Kalamazoo, Mich., for final processing. Production is scheduled for next July.

Production is expected this year at the new Red Rock mill of the Brompton Pulp and Paper company in the Nipigon district of northwestern Ontario. The outlay on this enterprise is estimated at $8,500,000, including a 100 dwelling townsite calling for expenditure of $500,000. Daily capacity will be 250 tons, and original plans for production of sulphite pulp have been broadened to include processing of the pulp into kraft liner board.

Other Programs Near Completion

Donnacona Paper company has largely completed a program of plant extension and improvements. It included installations of two new magazine grinders.

At Kapuskasing, Ont., the Spruce Falls Power and Paper company is starting production of crepe wadding. The first unit bleaching plant is in operation.

Plans of the Canadian International Paper company have been disclosed only to the extent of a new bleaching plant at its Gatineau mill, to be ready soon.

Almost every pulp and paper mill in Canada has either started or contemplates important replacement and expansion programs.

Great Northern Seeks Bids on Big Bond Issues

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Great Northern railway today invited underwriters to submit bids up to noon, Aug. 28, for its 75 million dollars of new general mortgage bonds, maturing in 1990 and 2000. Financial quarters expected two large banking groups to compete for the issue, one headed by Morgan Stanley & Co., and another by Halsey, Stuart & Co.

Delano Urges Credit Policy by Banks to Meet All Needs

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—Controler of the Currency Preston Delano in his annual report today indorsed a "vigorous and courageous policy by the commercial banks and one which will meet all legitimate demands for credit accommodation." He warned, however, against too intensive an exploration into fields of larger risk.

Preston Delano

The report thus brought more sharply before the public and banking interests what Delano termed "perhaps the most important problem which must be faced during the next few years by all who are concerned with the future of American banking and with the national welfare."

May Require New Role

Banks may ultimately have to choose between the "narrower and safer role" of depositary of the nation's current funds, investing principally in government securities and guaranteed loans, or broadening their field to include not only commercial loan functions but also "the duties of active initiators and more permanent financiers of industrial and commercial enterprises," Delano said.

He reported that the national banks are in a sound condition and "they can be depended upon to contribute toward the solution of many problems that will arise as the war is brought to a successful conclusion."

Warns of Deposit-Capital Ratio

Assets of national banks in 1944 continued the trend noticed in other war years. Investments in government securities increased 9.3 billion dollars and cash reserves increased 1.6 billions. Total assets increased 12.4 billions.

Earnings showed a moderate increase for the year. Net earnings were slightly under 10 per cent of total capital funds, the report said, and cash dividends amounted to 3.4 per cent.

Delano warned of the "dangers" he said existed in an increase in deposit liabilities of 12 billion dollars while capital funds were increasing only 315 millions. He urged that capital be strengthened wherever necessary, both thru the sale of new common stock and conservation of earnings.

Surplus Radio Sales Planned Thru Makers

Plans for selling 3 to 5 billion dollars worth of electronic and radio communications equipment made for war time use were announced yesterday by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Sale will be handled thru 225 or more manufacturers thruout the country. The RFC was designated by the surplus property board to dispose of radio and electronic equipment no longer needed for military service.

Included in the equipment to be sold will be thousands of walkie-talkies, which will be adaptable for use by police and fire departments, railroads, in golf tournaments, for the protection of property, and for a variety of other civilian purposes.

Variety of Items Offered

Other items include mobile radio communication units, field telephone sets, radar devices, mine detectors, code practice sets and radio direction finders. All will be suitable for adaptation to peace time use.

Many of the items will not be sold in their original form. For example, massive radar sets for battleships will be broken up into thousands of individual parts for resale. Some of the government's electronic property will be unsalable because of its highly specialized use.

Law enforcing bodies, educational institutions and other tax supported organizations will be given first choice at nominal prices.

Explains Sale Thru Maker

Sets which are electrically and mechanically perfect and unmarred will be priced as new equipment. Those with marred parts or mechanical imperfections will be available at small reductions.

The RFC said sales will be made thru the manufacturers because they have the facilities and technical ability to make necessary repairs, tests, and modifications to fit the parts for commercial use. It said this policy would save money for the taxpayers and help the industry which made the equipment.

INITIAL CIVILIAN UNIT PRODUCED BY DEEPFREEZE

The first home freezer for civilian use came off the assembly line yesterday at the Deepfreeze division of Motor Products corporation, North Chicago, Ill., the company announced.

The Chicago studio of Wilding Picture Productions is in full production on a large backlog of civilian orders, having finished its work for the navy, Norman E. Wilding, president, said.

STOCKS MAKE WIDE GAINS ON TRADE OUTLOOK

Many Upturns Run from 1 to 4 Points

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—One of the biggest rallies in several years was made by the stock market today as hopes for early business prosperity inspired buying of durable goods issues and a large assortment of rails.

The upswing developed after a mild opening. Second hour gains were from 1 to 5 points for motors and other favorites with dealings relatively fast. Prices were trimmed here and there at the close, but gains predominated with some running to more than 4 points. The speed slackened near the end. Turnover totaled 1,190,000 shares against 760,000 yesterday.

Various Factors Aid Prices

Word that automotive interests were planning to lease the 96 million dollar Willow Run bomber plant near Detroit for the manufacture of passenger cars and farm machinery helped the motor division. Quick moves of Washington to aid industrial transition helped optimistic sentiment. Realization that rails and steels would participate in a consumer increase aided these groups.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite was up 1.2 points at 65.1, the largest gain since Aug. 9 when a 1.3 advance was made. That was the largest gain since December, 1941.

Yet it may be necessary if the shortage of Old Poindexter continues.

Don't blame the barman or the proprietor for not having Old Poindexter on hand at all times. They are putting in their orders. We are doing our best to fill them. But this huge and embarrassing demand shouldn't happen to a little distillery.

The difficulty can be traced to the 40% small grains—jug yeast—low temperature fermentation—and the sour mash process. These ingredients and methods give Old Poindexter a different flavor—which too many people like.

There never was enough Old Poindexter to go 'round. But the shortage is now worse than ever before—so we appreciate your patience.

WASHER MAKERS PROTEST PRICING FORMULA OF OPA

Threatens to Halt Peace Shift, Says Hank

The pricing formula set up by the office of price administration for the washer-ironer industry is unacceptable and if put into effect may delay or prevent reconversion, the industry's OPA advisory committee yesterday advised Price Administrator Bowles.

The committee, headed by Bernard J. Hank, president of the Conlon corporation, Chicago, told Bowles the pricing formula is "incorrect" and will result in "unbearable" losses in the industry. The OPA proposes a 5.2 per cent increase over October, 1941, factory billing prices. The industry asked an interim increase of 15 per cent.

Lack of Plan Delays Output

Home laundry equipment for an estimated 5 million homes cannot be produced and sold until the manufacturers obtain a workable pricing plan, Bowles was told.

Louis C. Upton, president of the American Washer and Ironer Manufacturers' association and head of the Nineteen Hundred corporation, St. Joseph, Mich., said the entire industry is disturbed by the OPA formula.

"For the first time we are disturbed not only by the possibility of our inability to get back soon into production of washers, ironers, and dryers, but also by the possibility that several large manufacturers may have to cancel or reduce improvement and expansion programs involving millions of dollars," Upton said.

Policy Held Affecting Jobs

"The OPA pricing policy, if persisted in, will interfere with reconversion by halting employment, will keep returned service men from obtaining the jobs we promised them, will impair capital thruout the industry, and, most important, will prevent millions of women from obtaining the laundering equipment they sorely need."

Upton said the Washington price formula does not include all known costs.

WARD BAKING PLAN

Please analyze Ward Baking company's recapitalization plan in relation to earnings.—S. R.

Under the plan to be submitted to the company's stockholders at a meeting Sept. 26, each $7 preferred share, with dividend arrears of $58.30, would be exchanged for $25 in 5½ per cent debentures, ¼ share of new $5.50 preferred stock [$100 par], and 2½ shares of new common.

Class A stock would be exchanged for new common, share for share, and a warrant to purchase ½ share of common at $12.50 a share to 1951 and at $15 to 1956 would also be issued for each A and B share. There would be outstanding initially $6,395,000 debentures, due in 1970, a like amount of preferred stock, and about 722,475 common shares of an authorized issue of 1,250,000.

Interest and preferred dividend requirements would total $703,450 a year. In only one of the four years prior to 1942 did the company earn as much as this. Altho subsequent profits have been larger, earnings for the seven years ended with 1944 averaged only $757,787. The 1944 net income of $1,300,282 is equivalent to 83 cents a new common share.

Recent prices for the A stock indicate that the new common is valued at about 10. Under favorable earning conditions it is believed the debentures and new preferred might sell at about par. However, because of keen competition in the bread and cake baking industry and the prospect of a decline in sales when rationing of other foods is relaxed, a valuation of 10 for the common may prove too high.

LARGE ADVANCE MADE BY STOCKS IN ACTIVE TRADE

Sears Reaches New Peak

Among the gainers were Chrysler, Evans Products, and Sears Roebuck, at 1945 peaks; General Motors, Studebaker, Graham-Paige, Hudson Motors, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, New York Central, Atlantic Coast Line, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, International Telephone, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, American Airlines, Eastern Air Lines, du Pont, Eastman Kodak, and Allied Chemical.

Higher on the Curb were Fansteel, Graham-Paige preferred, Electric Bond and Share, American Cyanamid, and United Light. Turnover was 280,000 shares against 230,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO LIST RISES

Prices again advanced on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday and trading increased to 40,000 shares. Volume leaders included Peabody Coal and Consolidated Biscuit, each up ½; Utah Radio, up ⅝, and Central and South West Utilities and Chicago corporation, each up ⅛. Fitz, Simons & Connell, closing at 18, advanced one point to reach a new 1945 high.

RAIL BONDS CLIMB

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—Railroad issues made a strong rally in today's bond market and many advanced 1 to more than 3 points, most on heavy turnover. Industrials and utilities were steady and United States government issues firmed in late trading. Sales of $7,410,000 compared with $6,750,000 yesterday. Investment rated loans again were quiet, but steady. Foreign dollar bonds were narrow.

Domestic sales rose to $70,831,725, an increase of $3,340,429 over the first half of last year. Combined foreign and domestic sales were $89,316,197, against $85,421,405 a year ago.

PRICES FOR TOP LAMBS LOWEST SINCE JULY, 1944

Top grade lambs sold at $14.10 a hundred pounds yesterday in the Chicago stock yards, the lowest price for that grade since July, 1944. Prices for sheep and lambs have been shrinking since the government announced its subsidy program for sheep growers and feeders several weeks ago.

Best steers sold at $17.90, and top heifers at $17.40. Steady prices were paid for most heifers, beef cows, canners, and cutters.

Hog receipts at 9,000 were largest for a Thursday in four weeks. Ceiling prices were paid for most of the stock received.

Victory Holidays Send Store Sales Down 15 Pct.

The two day holiday last week caused department store sales in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district to decrease 15 per cent from a year ago, the first drop since May 19, the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Chicago sales were down 10 per cent.

Civilian Grade Gasoline Supply Reduced in Week

New York, Aug. 23 [Special]—Civilian grade gasoline stocks have dropped 235,000 barrels to 46,691,000 in the week ended Aug. 18 as rationing ended, but total gasoline production rose 343,000 barrels above the preceding week, the American petroleum institute reported today.

UNITED DECIDES NOT TO PROTEST MAIL RATE CUT

W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, notified the civil aeronautics board yesterday that United will not file objections to the mail rate of 45 cents a ton mile proposed by the board in its amended "show cause" order of Aug. 13. He explained that United regards the rate as applying to a transitional period which involves uncertainty as to operating results.

Patterson said that failure to contest the rate "in these critical times" will not operate to the company's prejudice in any future rate hearing.

He said the 45 cent rate, retroactive to Jan. 1, will make United's net income for the first half of this year $2,612,504, equal to $1.58 per share, compared with $2,924,837, equal to $1.79 a share in the first half of 1944. Under the old 60 cent rate net income for the first half of 1945 was placed at $3,541,785 and under the 32 cent rate proposed by the board in its original order it would have been $1,799,791.
